Halloween Curfews in Many Areas of Ulster County

By JEAN F. DOLAN

KINGSTON — With the fast approach of Halloween, curfews and restrictions have been set in most of the more populous areas of Ulster County. Parents have been advised to accompany their children on the traditional door-to-door rounds as a safety measure.

To keep Saturday a fun night for little witches and goblins in the City of Kingston, Mayor Francis R. Koenig has set 6 to 8 p.m. as official neighborhood trick-or-treat time for the youngsters. A strict curfew will start at 9 p.m.

The Kingston Police Department, Kingston Fire Department and the Volunteer Fire Companies of the city will be out in full force to protect the children and the property owners. Volunteers will keep a close watch on fire alarm boxes to guard against the sounding of false alarms according to a spokesman for the Kingston Volunteer Firemen's Association.

In the Village of Saugerties a 6 p.m. curfew has been imposed for children 13 years and under with the regular 10 p.m. curfew for youngsters under 18 being strictly enforced according to Mayor Cornelius M. Cox. The Town of Saugerties has invoked a 10 p.m. curfew. The entire town police force will be on duty throughout the night in full operation.

Strict enforcement is promised in the Village of Rosendale where an 8 p.m. curfew has been set for Saturday for all children under 16. Sgt. George Williams of the village police placed special emphasis on the fact that out-of-town automobiles will be restricted from discharging youngsters in the village for the purpose of roaming the streets.

In addition to the regular members of the police department, members of Active Hose Company No. 1 under the direction of Chief Albert Morelli and the fire police under direction of Maurice Crookston will be deputized to assist the police department on Halloween.

The Town of Rosendale curfew hour for those 17 years and under has been set at 9 p.m. Saturday and will be "strictly enforced," according to Supervisor Gerard De Felice.

The Town of Wawarsing and the Village of Ellenville have invoked matching two-day curfews with the witching hour of 10 p.m. both tonight and Saturday. Town officials have contacted State Police to arrange special patrols in the area. In Kerhonkson, fire police will assist law enforcement personnel. Fire police in Napanoch will be on duty to guard against fires.

Everyone must be off the streets in Woodstock by 11 p.m. Saturday to meet curfew rulings in that community. Chief Constable William Waterous urged parents to cooperate in having small children stay away from heavily traveled streets and highways where they might be endangered by traffic.

The Towns of Hurley and Ulster approved Halloween curfew hours at recent town board meetings. Hurley's Halloween deadline for youngsters is 11 p.m. while Ulster trick-or-treaters must be home by 9 p.m. Saturday.

Although no curfew hours have been slated for Towns of Marlinton, Esopus and New Paltz, officials stress that constables will be on patrol in those more rural areas. No curfew has been set for the Village of New Paltz.

Parents, too, received some advice from area officials on protecting their children and preventing vandalism.

Sheriff William B. Martin urged that parents provide their children with flashlights and light colored costumes so that they may be readily spotted by motorists in dimly lighted areas. He urged that parents check all candy, fruit and baked goods, gleaned by their youngsters as trick or treat fare to make sure the items are safe to eat. This warning was echoed by other officials throughout the county.

Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-Woodstock) today reminded parents that they might be held liable for any acts of vandalism of their children. Assemblyman Bell sponsored legislation this year which was passed and signed into law saying that a parent or legal guardian of a child over 10 and under 18 may be held liable for the child's willful, malicious or unlawful destruction of property through acts of vandalism up to a limit of $500.

Council Approves Architect

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — The mayor's request for an architect for the Rondout Neighborhood Center at Thursday night's Common Council meeting came as no surprise but the mayor's request for approval of a garbage contract signed almost a month ago apparently did.

"I wasn't aware of this contract until late last night," Alderman Clifford G. Sinsabaugh (D-10th Ward) told The Freeman after the meeting at city hall. The contract Sinsabaugh refers to and the one Koenig wrote to the Council for approval was signed by the city and Leo Darwak of the Kingston Sanitation Service for garbage collection in the central section of the city. The contract will run for a year and 10 months at $20,000 per year, prorated. Darwak took the contract of the late Byron Gerlack who died this year. Mr. Gerlack had been paid $16,000 per year for collection along the central route.

There was no discussion of the garbage contract during the meeting and very little talk about anything else as the Council session lasted less than 15 minutes. Mayor Francis R. Koenig's request to hire architect Augustus R. Schrowang to design the $265,000 Rondout Neighborhood Center at the site of the former Orpheum Theater on Broadway passed unanimously.

The mayor, by negotiating the new garbage contract with Kingston Sanitation Service, has apparently averted a garbage crisis in the city but there have been questions raised as to why he did not inform the public about it prior to last night's meeting.

The contract was signed on Oct. 1, but the mayor noted in his letter to the Council last night (dated Oct. 9) that "all this occurred too late for your Oct. 6 meeting."

Koenig explained the increase in the yearly price for the central route from $16,100 to $20,000 by stating that the contractor had incurred additional expenses with the new route. Those expenses included, according to a spokesman at the Board of Public Works, a new truck, two men to man it and some additional costs for bulldozing and fill operation at Darwak's dump site in the town of Kingston.

The other garbage contractor, Philip Gerlack, nephew of the late Byron, has the Downtown route at an annual cost of $16,300. He is still dumping on his uncle's land off Jockey Hill Road in the Town of Ulster.

The aldermen are expected to vote on the new garbage contract at their Nov. 10 meeting, a week late because of Election Day.

PUMPKIN PARTY—The children of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Peischel of High Falls are all set for Halloween with giant jack-o'-lanterns carved from pumpkins grown in their own garden. Lifting the lids are (L) Susan with a 103-pound pumpkin; Michael with 151 pounder and Diane, 110 pounder.

Senior Citizens Tax Help

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON — A break for senior citizens in the form of real property tax relief is just around the corner in Ulster County.

Little opposition to a proposal to provide partial tax exemption for persons 65 years of age with limited income was heard at a public hearing held Thursday night at the County Office Building.

The Legislature which is expected to vote favorably on the measure at its Nov. 12 meeting, also gave an airing to another proposed Local Law which established a code of ethics for county officials and employees.

The hearing attracted a number of senior citizens who inquired about the various aspects of the tax exemption law which allows for the income of the owner or the combined income of owners to be up to $5,000 for the year preceding date of application. The exemption to be granted is 50 per cent of the property's assessed valuation. Legislator Orrie R. Riehl (D-City) indicated that certain school boards in the county which obtain money through property taxes as well as from the government, were contemplating placing a $4,000 limit on the income of the applicant and later raising it to $5,000. Some boards and towns have advocated such a system due to the fact that they do not know how many persons will qualify and make application for the exemption. Therefore they claim they have no way of knowing how much of a tax loss will be suffered by schools and government. Some school boards reportedly do not want to raise the limit at all from its present $3,000.

"I don't think the impact will be that great," said Peter J. Savago, chairman of the Ulster County Legislature.

"It won't have that drastic an effect," said Ralph Brach, chairman of the Tax Base Study committee. He added that under the existing law of 1966 there are 1,353 taxpayers outside the City of Kingston who will benefit in 1971. We have no way of knowing how much that number will increase.

Each town and school district must pass on the law.

The code of ethics proposal brought forth some questions such as "When is a gift a gift?" "How was the proposed $25 limitation on gifts arrived at?" "What are the penalties for violation of standards of conduct?"

Ernest John Gardner (R-Dist. 11), chairman of the Legislative and Rules Committee, explained that the proposal follows recommended guidelines handed down by the state.

The measure, which, if approved, will take the form of a Local Law, is expected to be voted on at the Nov. 12 meeting of the Legislature.

President Promises Action

Demonstrators Harass Nixon

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon charged today that mobs such as those which attacked his limousine at a political rally Thursday night were "radical, anti-democratic elements" that threaten freedom of speech and assembly throughout the nation.

He promised to "take off the gloves" and respond to such "viciousness" at a political rally tonight in nearby Anaheim.

The President's glass-topped limousine, containing Nixon, Sen. George Murphy and Gov. Ronald Reagan, was hit with rocks. Bottles and eggs were hurled from a crowd of perhaps 900 cursing antiwar demonstrators as the presidential party left a GOP rally in San Jose, the last stop in a 5,500-mile cross-country campaign tour.

The President spent Thursday night in a guest house at his Spanish style villa after a minor fire caused by an overheated fireplace filled the home with smoke. Damage was minor.

Aides compared the protest incident to the attack made by a Communist mob on Nixon in Caracas, Venezuela, in 1958 when he was vice president.

"This was no outburst by a single individual," Nixon said in a statement issued on his arrival here at the Western White House. "This was the action of an unruly mob that represents the worst in America."

White House aides and guests of the President riding in a bus behind his limousine huddled in seats and aisles as rocks and bottles smashed four windows. Newsmen in another bus were splattered with glass from five smashed windows.

"It was just like Caracas," said Rose Mary Woods, the President's longtime personal secretary, who was sitting next to one of the smashed windows. Murphy termed the mob "wild-eyed, tough, angry revolutionaries" who "should be identified and isolated."

"I have been careful to point out that these are the actions of a violent few. It is important that all Americans keep this perspective," the President said.

"But the time has come to take the gloves off and speak to this kind of behavior in a forthright way. Freedom of speech and freedom of assembly cannot exist when people who peacefully attend rallies are attacked with flying rocks."

"At Anaheim (tonight) I will discuss what America must do to end the wave of violence and terrorism by the radicals, anti-democratic elements in our society."

The crowd had gathered by the time Nixon entered San Jose Civic Auditorium to ask support for Murphy and Reagan in their faces against Democratic challengers John V. Tunney and Jess Unruh. Signs in the crowd denounced him as a "fascist" and "warmonger" and several hundred persons chanted "One, two, three, four."

we don't want your f---war." Inside Nixon told an audience of about 8,000 persons that he had been successful in winding down the Vietnam conflict and repeated his promise to end the war in such a fashion as to gain a generation of peace for the nation.

On his way out, the President was heading into the parking lot, where police held the crowd about 60 yards away, when a few of the eggs splattered within about five yards of where he stood. Nixon raised his arms in the familiar V fashion and gave the anti-Nixon crowd his traditional campaign salute. The shouting and obscenities appeared to increase.

As his car moved out of the parking lot through a road cleared through the crowd, the missiles began falling. The President's limousine, with a police escort and trailed by a convertible with Secret Service agents in it, lurched forward. One agent tumbled from the convertible. Several were hit with rocks but none was seriously injured.

A rock smashed into a window of the "control" car containing presidential advisor H. R. Haldeman. It stopped abruptly, causing several minor collisions in the motorcade.

In Wichita, Kan., Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said Thursday the concept of political power residing with the people has been sullied by a handful of anarchists who want to destroy America and rule over its remains.

"It is far too important to the future of this free society to allow a handful of anarchists to take it over and debauch it," Agnew said.

Upstate Blitz For Rocky

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (UPI) — Governor Rockefeller wound up his upstate campaign against Arthur J. Goldberg today with a blitz through four cities.

Rockefeller, boosted by polls that show him leading in the bid for a fourth term, slated speeches and rallies in Rochester, Syracuse, Utica and Watertown.

The four-city trip was the governor's last major campaign swing through upstate. He will make a traditional "homecoming" rally appearance in Albany Monday. Goldberg had planned an upstate swing Monday, but it appeared that would be cancelled in favor of spending additional time downstate.

Rockefeller came here after a massive rally Thursday night at West Hempstead. The Long Island rally attracted 10,000 people to watch the candidates, 50 marching bands, a rock group and bongo drummers.

Noisy cheering and applause lasted ten minutes after Rockefeller entered the Island Garden Arena. Balloons were released and Republicans paraded around the hall with posters in a rally resembling a national party convention. Rockefeller called for support for "all the Republicans on the ticket."

Goldberg was campaigning in New York City after what was probably his last upstate appearance Thursday.

The former Supreme Court justice, accompanied by Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York City, criticized Rockefeller and Nixon administration economic policies during appearances in Buffalo, Lackawanna and Amherst.

"The people ought to know that the Hoover philosophy is being brought to life again through the mismanagement of our economy by the state and federal administrations," Goldberg said.

He criticized Rockefeller for "catering to the political winds" by supporting Nixon administration economic policy.

"The governor is notably lacking in expressing concern for the people — in fact he is lacking in concern for any issue except one — his own survival," he said.

Dick, Jim OK Debate Bid

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Richard L. Ottinger, the Democratic Senate candidate, Thursday night accepted a challenge to debate Conservative hopeful James L. Buckley on the eve of the election. The Republican incumbent, Sen. Charles E. Goodell was not included in the challenge.

"I find it repugnant that my two opponents have lowered themselves to a trivial debate of their respective rhetorical misrepresentations," Goodell said. "I doubt that such a two-way spectacle is legal any way."

The makeup of the debate is consistent with the claim by both opponents that Goodell will come in last in the three-way race. Ottinger has concentrated his campaign mainly against Buckley and Buckley has increasingly singled out Ottinger for criticism in the last days of the campaign.

Buckley, who was forced for the second day in a row to cut short his campaigning because of a chest cold, issued the debate challenge to Ottinger in Syracuse Thursday.

"We welcome Mr. Buckley's offer to answer his inflammatory rhetoric," a spokesman for Ottinger said in New York City. At the news conference, Buckley declined Ottinger to face him in a televised debate on charges of extremism made by the Democratic candidate. He quoted Ottinger as saying election of a conservative senator would result in repressive measures, including "the bayoneting of kids" on college campuses.

Buckley received the endorsement of William P. Tolley, chancellor emeritus of Syracuse University. While Tolley was still active as chancellor several years ago, he on one occasion raised a cane in anger at a protesting student.

"To my knowledge, Mr. Ottinger has failed to repudiate or deny any of the statements attributed to him, although I stated that I would accept at face value any such repudiation," Buckley said. He added that he was prepared to debate the issue Monday at Columbia University but Ottinger "decided not to appear."

N.Y. Police Station, Armories Bombed

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bombs ripped a police station and two armories here early today.

No one was injured in the explosions, all of which occurred within 20 minutes. Police reported some property damage.

The first explosion was in a courtyard of a police motorcycle precinct. The blast, which police said was caused by a pipe bomb went off at 3:15 a.m. on a windowsill and caused slight damage to the building.

The second bomb was planted in the machine shop of the Whitestone, Queens, Naval Reserve Center. Police received a warning via an anonymous female caller to a security guard at the armory.

"You'd better get out of the armory because a bomb is going off in five minutes," the woman told the guard, according to police. While the bomb squad was en route the device exploded at 3:20 a.m., shaking the building.

The third explosion took place at about 3:35 a.m. in an armory serving as an Army Reserve center in the Jamaica section of Queens.

That explosion knocked out portions of a wall and windows.

The explosive device in use apparently had been placed on a window ledge leading to the room where armaments did not detonate and there were no injuries reported.

U.S. Shows Irritation On the Generals

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, displaying its first public diplomatic irritation over the Soviet refusal to release a U.S. Army plane and its high-ranking passengers, has charged Moscow with violating U.S.-Russian consular agreements.

After eight days of talking in restrained, optimistic language, the State Department Thursday called for the immediate release of the passengers who include two American generals.

A statement handed to Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin said, "There is no justification for any further delay by the Soviet Union."

Meanwhile, the Soviets continued to portray the plane's landing in Russia across the Turkish border as a hostile act and linked it to alleged reconnaissance flights from U.S. bases.

A commentary in the Soviet news agency Tass said the incident "has again drawn the attention of the world public to the serious and constant threat of peace" from "400 large and 2,000 small American war bases on foreign territories."

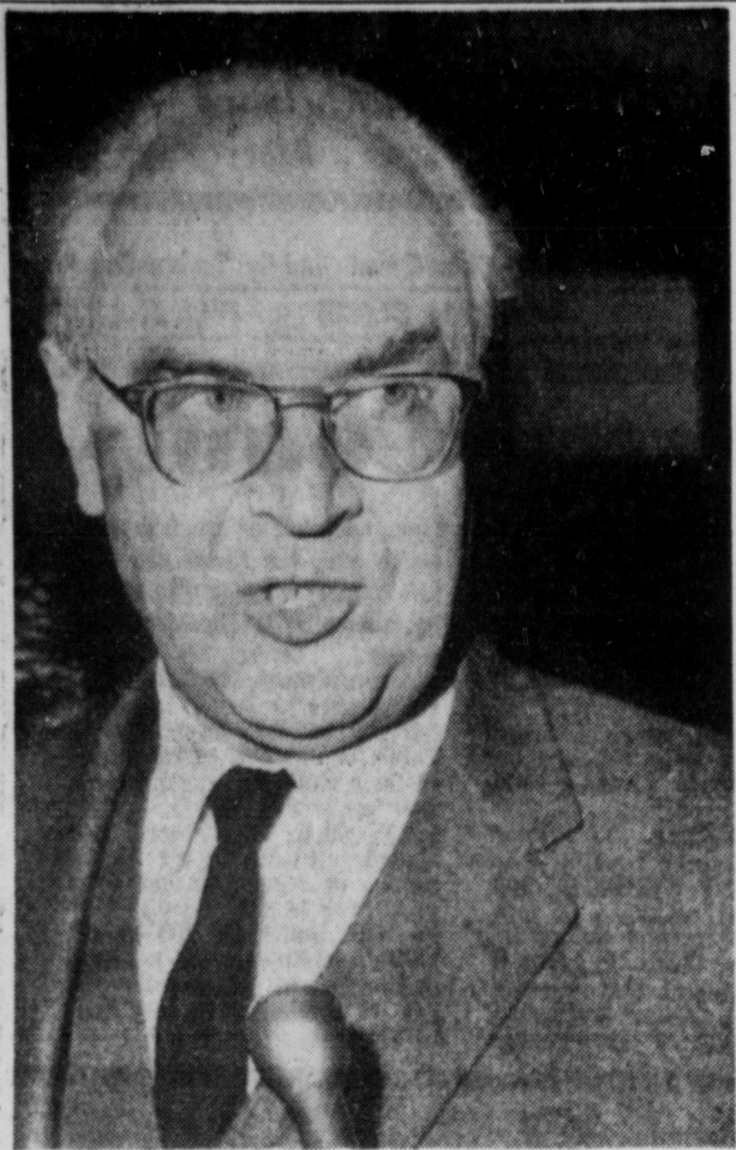

The American bases, Tass said, are "situated in the immediate vicinity of the Soviet Union and other Socialist countries and are widely used for espionage and other hostile activities."

The United States maintains the small white plane flew into Soviet territory accidentally. Besides the generals, an American major and a Turkish colonel were on board for what the U.S. says was a tour of Turkish border installations.

Dobrynin was handed the statement during a meeting with acting Secretary of State John N. Irwin. Afterwards the Soviet envoy said release of the passengers "depends on the results of the investigation" his country is conducting.

Talking to newsmen in the lobby of the State Department, Dobrynin said "the general consensus of this meeting was that it would be better for this not to happen again and for the generals to stay where they belong."

RELEASE DEPENDS — Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin is shown at the State Department after receiving the U. S. reply to Russia's protest over the violation of her air space by a small plane carrying three American officers, two of them generals, and a Turkish colonel. Dobrynin said the release of the two U. S. generals depended on the outcome of a Soviet investigation. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Registration a Plus for Rocky

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The other way around. Most of the falloff from next Tuesday's statewide election has to be regarded as a plus for Gov. Rockefeller and a disappointment for Democratic challenger Arthur Goldberg.

The official figures, reported Thursday by the Department of State, show 7,930,798 New Yorkers signed up for the balloting.

This is 187,000 under the record for a gubernatorial election, set four years ago. And the decline supports a general impression that many voters are not especially excited by the current election.

But the real political significance of this year's pattern is that registration is down in the places where Goldberg hopes to run strongest, while it has increased in what can be regarded as Rockefeller country.

Obviously, the Republican governor is taking a little extra comfort from this development. Clearly, Goldberg would rather see the situation just the hand, there was only a 4,000 decline in Queens, which Rockefeller hopes to carry, and there was an 11,000 increase in the Rockefeller stronghold of Staten Island.

Outside the city, registration climbed 10,000 in Rockefeller's home county of Westchester and soared 59,000 in pro-Rockefeller Suffolk County. The Suffolk gain more than offset an 11,000 dip in Nassau County.

There were similar increases and decreases in various counties farther upstate. But, again, Goldberg seemed to get the short end of it.

For example, registration dropped 12,000 in Erie County (the Buffalo area), which the Goldberg forces regard as their biggest upstate hope. In Monroe County (the Rochester area), where Rockefeller is running well, there was a 14,000 increase.

Assessing the impact of the registration figures on the U.S. Senate election is a bit more tricky because of the swirling cross currents in the three-way contest. It can be assumed, however, that Conservative James L. Buckley and Republican incumbent Charles E. Goodell stand to benefit from the upstate increases, while Democrat Richard L. Ottinger could be affected adversely by the New York City and Erie County decline.

Sorry, but we couldn't give our little friend away. You see, he's the only footed goblet of his kind.

Luckily, we found a footed goblet that while it may be a little less rare, is something pretty special. Tawny-colored and so gracefully designed it fits in beautifully with all kinds of dinnerware.

To get one, all you have to do is drive into a participating Mobil dealer. Buy eight gallons of our detergent gasoline. Get a coupon. When you get three coupons from the same dealer, return them to him. He'll give you free stemware. Your choice: 7 oz. juice goblet or 11 oz. water goblet.

Either way, a unique offer.

Po'keepsie Crash — $2.5 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — Two women have been awarded a total of $2.5 million in a negligence case resulting from the death of their husbands in an automobile accident May 12, 1967 in Poughkeepsie.

A federal jury ruled against Avis - rent - a - car and Frank Hertle of Manhattan, awarding $1.5 million to Phyllis Wrenn of Compton, Calif., and $1 million to Ruth Rousseau, of West Concord, Mass.

The decision came Wednesday night at the end of a seven-day trial in which lawyers for Avis and Hertle argued that the accident happened because all four men in the car had been drinking and thus assumed the risk.

Raymond O. Wrenn, 29, a black California National Guard lieutenant, who had been cited for his part in the 1966 Watts riots, and Gilbert Rousseau, 34, were in the rented Avis Dodge Dart along with two other men when it struck a tree while traveling from a tavern in Highland.

All were employees of International Business Machines at Poughkeepsie.

The car, rented by Wrenn, was driven by Hertle.

Mrs. Wrenn, 32, with one daughter, is to receive $1.5 million from Hertle. Mrs. Rousseau, mother of four, was awarded $1 million from Hertle and Avis.

The jury also awarded $20,000 from Avis and Hertle to William Taggart, 38, also of West Concord, Mass., who was injured in the crash.

The awards were based on a projection of the men's earnings. Wrenn, the jury was told, earned $13,000 a year at the time of his death and could have worked about 3½ years more. Rousseau, who earned $11,200 a year, had about the same earning potential.

Defense lawyers are expected to move Nov. 6 to set aside the verdicts as "excessive."

Bidding Stage for Shandaken Bridge

SHANDAKEN plank span on the Silver Hollow Road, just south of Route 214 in the Town of Shandaken has reached the bidding stage, it was announced Thursday by Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, R-Woodstock and State Sen. Jay P. Rolison, R-Ulster-Dutchess.

The state legislators said the State Department of Transportation has set Thursday, Dec. 10 for the opening of bids for the project estimated to cost $340,000. All bids will be opened publicly at 10:30 a. m. in the hearing room of the department's administration and engineering building at the State Office Campus, Albany.

The new span will cross over Stony Clove Creek just south of Route 214. A 77-foot bridge with a 36-foot wide concrete deck will be built just east of the existing span which will be removed.

The bridge approaches, including the Route 214 intersection, will be rebuilt on improved alignments with wider asphalt pavements. Steel box-beam guide railings also will be installed on the approaches.

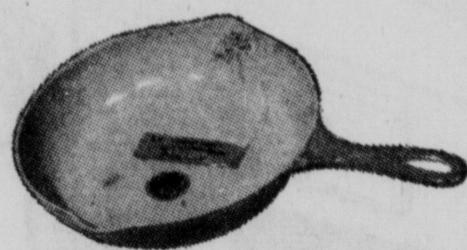

Town of Shandaken Supervisor Raymond J. Dunn of Phoenicia said the existing span is an old iron and plank roadbed bridge probably about 100 years old. He noted it is extremely hazardous and has caused some concern to the local fire company when trucks must cross.

Lenefsky Seeks Change in Auto Insurance System

POUGHKEEPSIE David Lenefsky, Democrat-Liberal candidate for the State Senate, today called for "an overall change in the New York State automobile insurance system." Lenefsky said that "a new approach based on 'no-fault accidents get no compensation' could put an end to the unjust situation which exists today whereby many New York State residents injured in automobile times for all actual losses they suffer. A special exception is made for drunk drivers, who are held strictly liable, because they are a special menace. Another important advantage of a no-fault system" said Lenefsky. State Senator to tell Dutchess and Ulster citizens about the injustices under the present insurance system, and to work hard for a change," declared Lenefsky. "This is exactly what my opponent has failed to do in four years in office."

Under the existing automobile insurance system," Lenefsky continued, "only 14 1/2 cents of every insurance premium dollar in New York State gets to accident victims to pay for net economic loss."

Lenefsky, who has received the endorsement of the United Automobile Workers Executive Board, Local 297, Poughkeepsie, said that, "It is the job of a

Greaney Takes Issue With Voting Record of His Foe

KINGSTON Greaney explained. By so doing he is depriving the handicapped, vocational institutions and veterans.

The question, he said, is why the administration, after the veto, would turn around and ask for a $900 million loan for the Penn Central Railroad?

Greaney suggested that the thinking behind such actions indicates that "it's inflation when it's money for education, but it is not inflation when a loan is given to a large corporation."

John J. Greaney, Democratic candidate for Congress, came to Kingston Thursday to take issue with the voting record of his opponent, Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr.

The East Durham lawyer and father of 13 children cited the record saying that on measures concerning education, $4.4 billion appropriated by Congress was vetoed by President Richard M. Nixon. That veto was supported by Congressman Fish, Regarding the Hill-Burton Hospital bill, Greaney said $2.79 billion for grants and loans for construction and modernization of hospitals over a three-year period also was vetoed by Nixon.

"Fish, like a good little boy, ran right along side him and voted to support the veto," Greaney said.

"Once more, as a reasonable man, I ask you, what reasons were given for such action? Fish, he said, "once more gave no reason for voting against hospitals," Greaney concluded.

On labor appropriations, Greaney said Fish again supported the President's veto and voted against the bill. That veto was sustained, he said.

"Congress then passed a new bill with $300 million less than the first bill and effort was made to cut federal funds still further with an amendment to give the President authority to withhold two and one-half per cent of the necessary funds." Fish, he said voted for further reduction of these labor funds.

Again Fish gave no reason for the vote he cast, Greaney added.

Greaney said he has queried Fish on these questions when the two encountered each other in recent debates claiming that Fish avoided giving him a direct response.

Housing and Urban Development

On a bill before the Congress,

a bill vetoed by the President, officials toward that end.

"Does Fish think we are fools or children?" he asked. We judge a man by his actions, not his rhetoric."

"One has to question the veracity of Fish when he stated before an Oneonta housing group recently that he is anxious to obtain funds lacking in HUD." Greaney quoted Fish as also saying that he would do all he could to influence government Concluding, Greaney asked all people concerned about the truth of his (Greaney's) statements to satisfy themselves by direct reference to the bills.

A NO vote on Proposition One is strongly urged by the Ulster County Conservative Party Executive Committee, according to Harry S. Hoffman, chairman of the Ulster County Conservative Party.

"Public housing programs have failed miserably to produce the results claimed for them by their promoters," Hoffman said. "Instead of clearing slums these programs have created new slums as bad or worse than the slums they replaced; instead of reducing crime, they have become hotbeds of destruction of property, and of fear and terror; instead of providing low-cost housing, they have constructed housing at higher cost per dwelling unit than most taxpayers can afford for themselves; instead of providing low rents for persons of low income, 200 housing authorities cannot meet operating expenses out of rental income without raising rents beyond the tenants' ability to pay, according to an article in Barron's National Business and Financial Weekly.

Vogt, DuBois, Chipp

The duties of a district attorney are many and varied. Among the duties is the prevention of crime through law enforcement, investigation of crime through grand jury presentment and the prosecution of those charged by the grand jury with criminal violation of the law.

In addition to prosecuting those charged with crime, the district attorney also must protect the rights of the innocent. He must base the people's case on evidence, always seeking the truth, not victims.

Francis J. Vogt, Republican-Conservative candidate for District Attorney, for 10 years has been an assistant in Ulster County's District Attorney's office. For six of these years, he has been chief assistant. Prior to his 12 years experience as a trial lawyer, he was an FBI agent for seven years. In his part-time duties, Vogt has shown a high degree of ability and diligence in carrying out his duties.

Currently, investigation of narcotics violations and prosecution of those charged with violation has become a major duty of the office of public prosecutor. Vogt sees the need for having a minimum as well as a prescribed maximum sentence for drug violations. He also favors revising the narcotics law to make the sale of LSD as serious a violation as of a narcotic drug.

The district attorney also carries on a program of education in the community including the schools, giving them a summary of duties and activities of his office, the courts, grand jury and evidence.

Beginning January 1 next, the office of district attorney here will be a full-time job as it should be. We believe that Francis Vogt with his experience and continued perseverance in carrying out assigned responsibilities will be a strong, competent chief prosecuting officer for Ulster County and we recommend his election.

Fred H. DuBois, who seeks reelection as Ulster County Treasurer on the Republican and Conservative tickets, stands on his record as the chief fiscal officer of the county who receives and disburses funds.

During his tenure of office, which dates back to 1958, he points to investing the county's excess cash in interest-bearing accounts, with interest this year amounting to almost $200,000.

The treasurer's duties are administrative. He pays bills of the county whenever presented with proper warrant, usually from the county auditor. He collects certain taxes directly such as those from public service corporations. The remainder of the taxes are levied through collectors of the cities and towns. He also is charged with collecting delinquent taxes from towns and school districts. He keeps records of all fiscal transactions and is responsible for the distribution of all state and federal aid.

There are certain statutory limitations. Control and supervision of the office is exercised by the Board of Supervisors and the state through its audit system and forms supplied by its accounting department.

The coroner is an elected official who holds inquests whenever there is an unexplained death or fatal accident. He has the power to call witnesses, hear evidence and seek out professional advice. He may order autopsies and is in charge of the morgue.

No special legal or medical qualifications are necessary for the position. Autopsies may be requested when crimes or negligence are suspected in connection with a death. Autopsies are performed by a pathologist under the supervision of the City of Kingston Laboratory and the coroner has use of the laboratory facilities.

Arthur Chipp, an undertaker, one of three coroners in Ulster County, seeks reelection on the Republican and Conservative tickets. He averaged about 70 calls a year for the past five years and has worked diligently with all law enforcement agencies and the pathologists at the Kingston Laboratory.

Qualified and competent, Coroner Chipp should be returned to office.

Have Good, Clean Fun

Halloween is becoming a more constructive observance with less destructive acts in the Kingston area. This was in evidence the last few years when only minor incidents of vandalism occurred. The children had real fun and they are entitled to praise, which we are pleased to extend.

Of course, we still have some among us who seem to derive great pleasure out of hurting others and in destroying property. These few are forewarned that law enforcement agencies will not tolerate acts of vandalism. They will enforce the law and make arrests. Residents are advised to call the authorities and report any unlawful incidents. A timely call may avert serious trouble.

Again this year the young folks will have a "Trick or Treat" bag in which to place contributions for the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund. In this activity, the children will be assisting the UNICEF to help fight hunger, misery, disease and ignorance in the underprivileged parts of the world.

Everyone should help our young people enjoy Halloween, which will be observed Saturday. They should be encouraged to keep up their good work so that this year we can report vandalism as non-existent.

David Lawrence Says Student Interest in Current Political Campaign Wanes

WASHINGTON —

Reports are beginning to come in from different parts of the country indicating a drop-off in student interest in the current political campaign. Many of those who did believe that the recesses granted them to work for the candidates of their choice might be useful found themselves less enthusiastic when they became familiar with actual electioneering. It is estimated that a relatively small percentage of the students taking advantage of time off given them by several colleges are using the vacation period for the intended objective. Many are instead occupied with their studies or engaging in other activities.

This is not a surprising trend. The proposed participation of a larger number of the nation's students in political campaigns was theoretically a good idea. Indeed, the more people who become interested in the various tasks that are associated with the pre-election period, the better off the whole American political system would be. But, unfortunately, the project to turn loose tens of thousands of students for a two-week vacation to help candidates in the election was not accompanied by enough organized planning.

The concept of providing the youth of the country an opportunity to learn at firsthand about the election process is an excellent one, and the colleges and universities can play a vital part in carrying out the educational purpose.

A vase of flowers... For all eternity, the soul of Adolf Hitler will have to stare at them. The vase is on an end table in Munich, gracing a small semi-circular porch.

On the left, squinting in afternoon sun, is the face of an elderly woman, the white hair straight up like a snowy volcano. On the other side is a tall young woman with apathy pulling her features down.

The same snapshot arrived in America every two weeks. The stout ugly woman with the wart on her chin tore each envelope open frantically. When she saw the flowers, she resumed breathing. Everything was fine.

Early in World War II, I met Fanny Schulin at a New York newspaper office. I was a contest editor and she wanted to know why she never won. This was a pest. A homely pest. Her accent was dripping Teuton, and her attitude was that the contest must be fixed.

behind it. But students are for the most part unfamiliar with the kind of work they have to do in electioneering. They are often unacquainted with the areas in which they are asked to operate, and like many other campaign voters even in their own neighborhoods.

If the universities could maintain, for the whole school year, courses of study to teach students—irrespective of what their own political beliefs might be—how they can help to create a better informed electorate, it would be a valuable contribution. For the difficulty is that the public, generally speaking, is not knowledgeable on the basic issues. This is largely because national questions are seldom simplified or explained to the normal voter. The candidates themselves frequently do not send out literature that is easy for the average person to understand, nor is enough background provided to enable the citizen to form a judgment on a highly controversial problem.

Certainly there is need for an educational program which would help the people to enter the pre-election period with greater understanding of what their representatives in Congress have done and what the issues are that need attention. To go around and ring doorbells and try to argue about campaign questions with householders is hardly a satisfactory formula for campaigning. If meetings to expound current affairs were arranged in local districts, many citizens would attend and they themselves would have an influence on their neighbors and acquaintances.

Some students, of course, will have been of assistance in the present campaign, but only a small percentage. Much more could be accomplished if the whole subject of educating the voter—irrespective of party—were to be tackled by the colleges and made an integral part of the curriculum. Reports say that some of the students though they would be interested in the campaign but found themselves disappointed or bored. Many of them spent their time distributing leaflets or doing other routine chores. Certainly special recesses for college students are not necessary for this kind of activity.

What is really needed is an understanding of the way the American electorate reacts during political campaigns. Unanswered are such questions as why a large number of citizens are apathetic and do not vote. Also, an explanation of the meaning of national legislation to the individual is not often made available.

Education of the citizen so that he may cast his ballot on the basis of facts is not something that can be accomplished by a few college students dispersed in election districts a week or two before the polls are opened. It is a problem to which universities might well give their attention in courses of study and even in divisions or departments designed to cover the functioning of government in America.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

reading Hegel and Hillel.

Fanny's sister was either a sexual or inordinately prim. So too was Fanny. Once, in a gay mood, she went cycling with a group through the hills behind Munich. When the German boys coaxed the girls to rest in a hayloft, Fanny closed all males from her mind.

Her father realized that she was more intelligent than her sister, and treated her to take over the administration of the linen shops. Fanny declined. She wanted to become a writer. She scribbled dark and jaded poetry at 20. At 25, she was in Berlin writing silent movies for Max Reinhardt.

Her enemy appeared suddenly. He was slender, had a lip mustache, and a brown shirt. She recognized him. His speeches in the beer cellars, his book Mein Kampf, written at Landsberg prison, told her that life, as she knew it, was about to end. Reinhardt begged her to remain in Berlin.

"No," she said, "the Nazis know me. I am a Jew and worse than a Jew. I wrote things against them; things for Germans to read." She hurried back to Munich; her father, the gentle protector, was dead. "I am going to America," she said. "Here is a post office address in New York. Please, take a picture on the porch—both of you. If I see a vase of flowers, I will know everything is all right. I beg you."

The United States didn't want Fanny Schulin. She did not come in under a German immigration quota. Adolf Hitler was working out plans to kill 4,750,000 Jews and 1,250,000 Slavs in concentration camps. The U.S.

Immigration Dept. told Miss Schulin she would have to go home.

She kept running to Canada, and coming back in. She could neither think literature in English nor write it. So she became a baby-sitter who was overworked and underpaid by people she thought were her own. Every two weeks, a picture arrived. Mother, sister, the flowers.

She laughed. She got passes from me for new movies. She stayed at our house. One week she missed a date to visit. The police found her in the bathroom on the 14th floor of a Times Square hotel. She was unconscious on the floor. The heels of both shoes were standing in the window ledge. In her handbag was a photo of mother and sister, an empty table between them.

The Browns were kind to the Schulins. Because mother and daughter cleaned all their garments, and made lists of them and all their worldly possessions before turning on the gas in the oven, the neighbor women would be permitted to notify the daughter in America of their suicide.

Fanny was in Bellevue Hospital's psychiatric ward. I talked to Dr. Baumann and assured him that she was not a nut. Fanny swore to me that she would live with her grief, rather than die by it. She went to Hollywood and became a baby-sitter, saving dimes for movies. Then she grew old, and died.

She was ugly beautiful, part of our family. When I think of Hitler, I do not see the bleached bones in museum graves. It's the same portrait. A vase of flowers...

Jack Anderson Says $100,000 Gift From Hoffa To Lyndon Johnson Aide Alleged

WASHINGTON — A secret sworn statement to the Justice Department charges that ex-Senator Dan Brewster, D-Md., in 1964 "delivered $100,000 in cash in a suitcase" from Teamsters' boss Jimmy Hoffa to President Lyndon Johnson's political aide, Clifton Carter.

The explosive charge is contained in a 200-page statement taken on August 5, 1969, from Brewster's former administrative assistant, John F. Sullivan.

An outraged Carter called the charge "totally incorrect." He told this column fiercely: "I had nothing to do with any such incident."

Alleged Sullivan in his sworn confession: "During the 1964 campaign, Senator Montoya's assistant, Paul Demos, called for Brewster and me to meet with representatives of the Teamsters."

"A meeting was held and Montoya asked Brewster if he would like to be helpful to some good friends of his. Brewster agreed and asked who they were. Montoya said it was Hoffa. Brewster agreed to meet with Hoffa. A meeting was held on the veranda of the Teamsters Union building in the District of Columbia."

Sullivan swore he attended the meeting. He identified the other participants as Brewster, Hoffa, Demos and the late Teamsters lobbyist Sid Zagari.

"When Hoffa arrived," continues the secret statement, "he suggested that he and Brewster take a walk. They did, and when they returned, Hoffa left. Brewster told me that Hoffa asked if Brewster would be the middleman between Hoffa and Lyndon Johnson and deliver $100,000 to Clifton Carter. Brewster said he agreed."

"Brewster met with Clifton Carter and delivered $100,000 in cash in a suitcase to Clifton Carter."

Senator Joseph Montoya, D-N.M., flatly denied his alleged part in the pay-off. "I never met Hoffa. I never knew him," said the Senator.

His assistant, Paul Demos, called Sullivan's statement "fantastic." "What an imagination that man has," declared Demos. "Nothing like that ever happened. Sullivan is an out-and-out liar."

The Sullivan statement became the basis for a bribery indictment last year against Brewster who was accused of accepting $24,500 from Spiegel, Inc., the Chicago mail order house, to influence his "action, vote and decision on postage rate legislation."

The indictment was dismissed last month on the constitutional grounds that Brewster had been protected by his congressional immunity at the time of the alleged bribe.

Brewster wasn't the only Senator accused by Sullivan. This column reported on December 6, 1969 that Senator Vance Hartke, D-Ind., allegedly had also received money from Spiegel through committees set up under lax campaign laws as channels for such funds.

In the secret statement now made available to this column, Sullivan charged that Hartke, in return for the Spiegel contributions, had also tried to help the giant mail-order firm get more advantageous postal rates.

"Vance Hartke was also on the (Senate Post Office) committee and participated in the executive sessions," stated Sullivan. "Hartke would also challenge statements from the Post Office Department..."

"During October of 1967, many meetings were held between Vance Hartke and Daniel Brewster regarding the rate increase."

Sullivan recounted one conversation that allegedly occurred in his presence.

"During a conversation between Daniel Brewster and Vance Hartke in late 1965 or early 1966 concerning how to hide money received," said Sullivan, "Brewster asked, 'How do you beat the IRS?'"

Hartke said it was simple to set up a committee in the District of Columbia with a bank in the District of Columbia, as there was no requirement to report contributions.

"All government buildings should be perfectly beautiful, interior and exterior," she told the Washington Post. "The Justice Department is so antiquated. The lighting is perfectly miserable. You can't see your hand in front of your face."

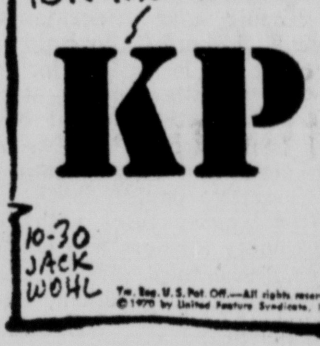

She took issue with my report that she had removed the trees outside the Attorney General's window to improve the view. "That a big, fat lie," she said.

She had the old oaks outside the window chopped down, all right. But she explained: "We never look out the window. The only time was when they were tear-gassing and cutting up like revolutionists."

I am happy to give Mrs. Mitchell the last word.

Kremlin Muzzles Dissidents

By LEON DENNEN

NEA Foreign News Analyst

NEW YORK (NEA) —

The Kremlin's top man, Leonid Brezhnev, urgently needs to put his house in order to cope with the growing assertiveness of Russia's dissidents who are stepping up their quest for "socialism with a human face."

This Soviet leaders are now attempting to do by muzzling men like Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn, who won the 1970 Nobel Prize for Literature, and other dissident writers, scientists and Red army officers.

One of the more significant facts to emerge from a study of Russia's underground press is the support given by officers of the armed forces to Solzhenitsyn's campaign against de-Stalinization.

Two high ranking officers—former Gen. Grigorenko and Col. Altunian—now languish in mental institutions because they dared advocate civil rights in Russia. A third, Gennadi Gavrillov of the Baltic fleet, recently was executed in the Soviet Republic of Estonia.

Gavrillov was charged with belonging to a group of officers who organized a secret movement known as "Democrats of Russia, the Ukraine and Baltic states."

A copy of the movement's program that reached the West calls for the restoration of democracy in Russia, self-determination for Ukrainians, Jews, Balts, Tartars and other nationalities that comprise the Soviet Union—and friendship with the United States.

Belatedly, Brezhnev even unveiled a marble bust of Stalin at his grave. It is the Kremlin's latest and most symbolic step to rehabilitate the terrorist rule of the dictator who died 17 years ago.

But can Brezhnev turn back the clock of history?

There is evidence that many Russians, including members of the Communist elite, question the value of Marxist-Leninist rigidity in modern technological society.

According to the "Chronicle of Current Events," Russia's popular underground newspaper, some 300 dissidents are imprisoned in forced labor camps ruled by the KGB, the Kremlin's secret police. Scores are jailed in mental institutions.

In a letter of protest to the Kremlin, Solzhenitsyn had the courage to condemn the practice of "incarcerating free thinking and healthy people in madhouses." He called it "spiritual murder."

and a "variant of Hitler's gas chambers."

In awarding him the Nobel Prize, the Swedish Academy praised Solzhenitsyn for "the ethical force with which he has pursued the indispensable tradition" of Tolstoy, Dostoyevsky, Boris Pasternak and other great Russian writers.

'Days of Rage' Reach Into Utah

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

NEA Washington Correspondent

SALT LAKE CITY (NEA) —

In a bare headquarters room fitted out with metal chairs for a press conference, two women are sitting up front, looking as if they had just had a slight brush with terror.

In strides U.S. Rep. Laurence J. Burton, the bespectacled, broad-faced Republican challenger to incumbent Democrat Sen. Frank E. Moss, a liberal "sort" in generally conservative Utah.

(Their close race is representative of hard tussles the GOP is mounting against sitting Senate Democrats in a whole cluster of Mountain States which President Nixon would like to crack.)

As Burton reaches a small table, he unfurls a poster he says the two frightened women found pasted to his campaign office door that morning. No other door on the block had one.

The poster shows a burning U.S. flag, says in sizable print that "Babylon Will Burn" and adds, "First Anniversary, Days of Rage, '69." The reference is to a window-smashing, looting rampage in downtown Chicago a year ago by the radical Weatherman faction of the militant Students for a Democratic Society.

Somberly, Burton says he will not be "intimidated" by such tactics. He declares that in the final campaign days "no women are to be working here without men being present." And he alludes to other radical literature, "too obscene to be shown on television," which he says was spread about when Nixon and Vice President Agnew came in.

That evening, addressing an accountants' dinner, Burton recounts the poster episode again and says:

"I am upset and I am asking you to get upset... it's not the kind of thing we expect to have happen here in Utah."

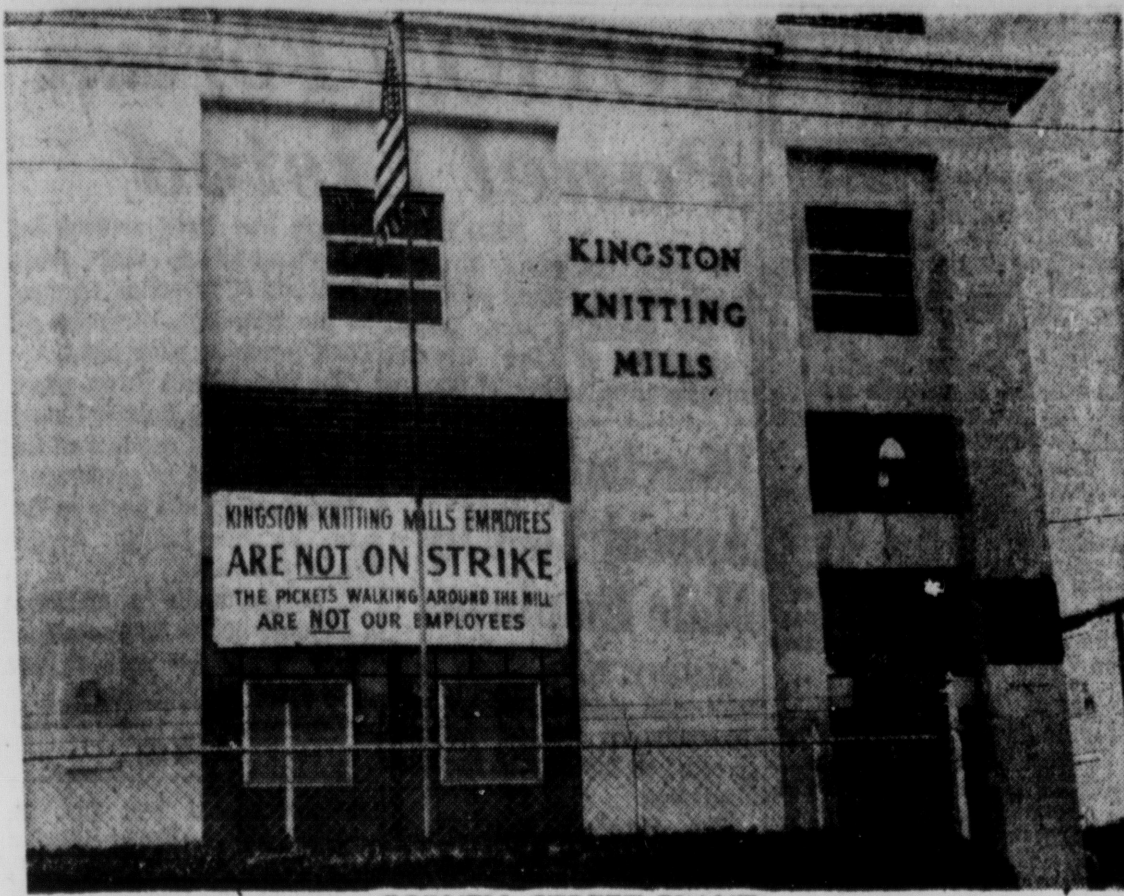

Indeed it is not, in a state where about the worst disruptive occurrence was a spring student sit-in at the University of Utah which led to 87 arrests at the time of the great Cambodia-Kent State stir.

To me, knowing of one eastern candidate whose headquarters have had at least 10 real bomb scares, Burton's poster bit seemed dramatic overkill. Yet Utah folks, like other mountain westerners, see the nation's street and campus violence on television and are uptight about it, even though far from the big disorders. It is the big issue.

Moss knows it, too, and has scurried for the center on the crime-unrest-violence issue. With a reliable Oct. 11 poll showing Moss just two points ahead after adjustments for the likely turnout, top Moss aides fear any real score by the onrushing Burton on the violence issue could tip the scales against the two-term incumbent.

Each candidate utters stock stuff on the other issues—the economy and the Vietnam war. Burton says Nixon is curbing an inflation the Democrats began; Moss replies Nixon is making it worse and it's hitting Utah hard (it is, with unemployment 6.8 per cent).

VAW Profit Plan for 5th Year

ELLENVILLE V.A.W. of America, Inc., has announced that for the fifth consecutive year, since the formation of the company, the maximum allowable contribution to the V.A.W. Employees' Profit Sharing Retirement Plan is being paid. The contribution for the fiscal year will be in excess of $350,000.

Management has informed all employees that the full 15 per cent of the total compensation earned by each eligible employee will be added to their profit sharing retirement account.

In a letter to the employees, company executives Manfred F. Schroeder, president, and Maurice H. Roberts, executive vice president, stated: "Although our fiscal year ended September 30, was relatively successful, we have been faced with many factors influencing the operation and profitability of our company. Following the general slowdown in the U. S. economy, the aluminum industry in total suffered a severe cutback, with reductions of approximately 6 per cent in the aluminum tube and extrusion business. Despite this development, V.A.W. of America was fortunate to maintain its sales level and even increase business volume."

"We feel that all of us can be proud of our contribution to the company's accomplishments in the past that we should be equally proud to work for a growing company."

"Presently, we are faced with an extremely competitive situation in the market; the anticipated upturn in the economy does not appear to be coming into effect; most aluminum companies have recently announced shutdowns and cutbacks; price competition for our products is increasing; the cost of money is extremely high; labor costs and material costs have increased substantially; and, we have to expect even higher costs for electricity, oil, taxes, etc."

The fall decorations were arranged by Mrs. Ruth Guido.

Discrimination Appeal Lost by Male Employee

ALBANY, N. Y. (UPI) — A man who complained he was discriminated against because of sex lost his appeal in court Thursday.

The Appellate Division of State Supreme Court refused to overturn the dismissal by the State Division of Human Rights of a case brought by Nelson Egbert.

Egbert said he was dismissed as a printer from the Asgrow Mandeville Co. in Cambridge, Washington County, because a female boss did not want a male printer in her department. Egbert, who held the job for only a week, said his six co-workers on the job were all women.

He argued that the probability against finding six women working at the printer's trade at the plant "would figure out to roughly 729 million to one."

An attorney for the Human Rights Agency said Egbert was let go after a trial period because he had not demonstrated sufficient ability to perform the job.

"It is respectfully submitted that the petitioner's reliance on statistics in this case is due to his feeling that printing is a man's job and that it wounded his pride to discover one type of printing being done by women and being done better than he was able to do it," the attorney told the court.

Loyalty Day co-chairman, Mrs. Mary Aiello, urges full participation in all Loyalty Day functions, since, without the financial support, the annual event will not be able to take place.

The Auxiliary voted to present flags to the Mt. Marion Brownie Troop 53 and to the Saugerties Jaycees. Dates of presentation will be announced.

Mrs. Margaret Whitaker will demonstrate flag etiquette to the Brownies at St. Mary's of the Snow on Tuesday, Nov. 10.

Reservations are still being accepted for the New York City bus ride on Saturday, Dec. 12. For an immediate reserved seat contact Mrs. Dorothy Wood. The bus leaves Saugerties at 7 a.m. and will leave the Port Authority at 10 p.m. on the return trip.

A Halloween carnival at Castle Point Hospital had participation from the Auxiliary on Oct. 26.

Mrs. Margaret McColl expressed her thanks to all who helped to bring the rummage sale to such a successful conclusion. Assisted by Mrs. Kay Helm, 16 members worked 134 hours on the project.

"I'll never forget it," was the way Mrs. Ethel Jehle expressed her thanks for the Auxiliary's wonderful catered dinner and courtesies shown during her recent Rebekah reception.

Philip Breithaupt, a member of the Dads of Foreign Service and Mrs. Mary Bruno, Gold Star mother, are ill at home.

Members are asked to make note of the change in November's meeting. It will be the first Wednesday of the month, Nov. 4.

Crab Cactus Can Present Thorny Problems

By GEORGE ABRAHAM
Next to the African Violet (America's most popular house plant) we receive more inquiries about the Crab or Christmas Cactus than any other.

The Freeman does not answer the Green Thumb mail. For information write:

er plant. If your Crab cactus blooms for you at Thanksgiving instead of Christmas maybe it's supposed to.

I'll try to explain why. There are two species, and they are very similar. One is the so-called "Christmas cactus", correctly identified as Schlumbergera bridgesii, but also listed as Zygocactus truncatus or Epiphyllum truncatum (both latter terms incorrect). Then there's the "Thanksgiving cactus," Schlumbergera truncatus. For all practical purposes, the home gardener doesn't give a hoot about the botanical names, but we mention them merely to show that there are actually two different plants involved.

The Christmas cactus has leaf joints with rounded teeth, whereas the Thanksgiving cactus has leaves with pointed teeth. Both species respond to day length and temperature conditions for flowering. Locality has a lot to do with time of blooming, also.

The Thanksgiving cactus forms flower buds sooner and produces flowers earlier than the Christmas cactus. FREE: If you want to know more about how to grow these plants, send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and ask for our guide, HOW TO GROW THE CRAB CTACTUS. It has information about other plants also.

WALNUTS AGAIN: If you've been wondering why the meats of your walnuts are moldy, I'll explain why. Usually, it's due to rainy weather, or the nuts not being picked up soon enough after falling. Husks of the nuts drop to the ground, and it may become moldy, and it may left in a bag. Some growers use artificial heat to dry off the nuts, remove husks as soon as possible after gathering and the hulled nuts washed. One way to remove the husks is to lay the nuts in a driveway and run the car over them a few times. Another trick is to pound each nut through a hole in a board to remove the husks. Some people store walnuts on a cellar floor and crack husks as the nuts are needed, but this is somewhat messy.

Did you know that dry black walnuts or hickory nuts will shell a lot easier if you wet them before cracking? Soak them for 15 to 20 minutes and store overnight in a damp burlap sack. Black walnuts are easily cracked by pressure

GREEN THUMB CLINIC: A reader writes: "Please settle an argument for us. Will golden rod cause hay fever? My husband gets it every year?" Answer: No, golden rod is an insect-pollinated plant and does not shed pollen into the air. Ragweed is the real villain.

Keep Old Strawberry Plants; Best Years May Be in Future

If you take proper care of strawberry plants, they can be productive for eight or more years, contrary to popular belief. Many who raise the luscious berry believe the bulk of fruit is produced on young or new plants. Research indicates that old plants may be just as productive.

Weeds and plant diseases are two major factors to be weighed in deciding whether to keep strawberry beds for another fruiting season, says Pomologist John P. Tompkins of Cornell. If you have disease and weed-free beds, chances are you will get good yields another year.

Here are suggestions for preparing the strawberry bed for next season:

1. After harvest, mow plant foliage with a garden lawn mower, cutting leaves 12 inches above the top of the plant crown.
2. Cultivate and narrow plant rows to 15-18 inches, using a rototiller (or other). You may have to remove excessive mulch to help cultivation.
3. Thin plants if closer than 5 or 6 inches apart in the matted row.
4. Fertilize, using 500 lbs of 10-10-10 per acre, or 5 lbs. per 100 ft. of row.
5. Water plants heavily right after fertilization.
6. Use weed killer to destroy germinating weeds. Effective herbicides are tenoran, dephenamid, sesone and decthal.
7. Cultivate to control weeds, by hand if necessary.

Browning Birches

The brown, burnt appearance of the white birch may be due to the small black sawfly that attacks the leaves in mid-May, causing a blighted appearance by mid-June.

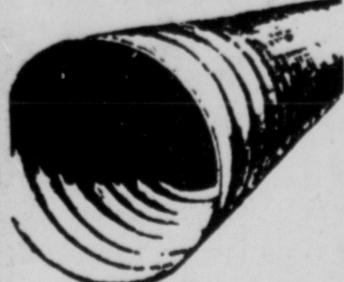

The insect spends the winter in mature larvae in soil under the birch tree and the adult sawfly emerges in May and lays eggs on birch leaves. Young larvae "mine" the leaves and feed on internal tissue, which causes the browning.

Spray the trees in mid-May

Saturday Curfew Is Amended In Rhinebeck

RHINEBECK A special meeting following the Town of Rhinebeck's relatively quiet preliminary budget hearing Thursday night amended the Halloween curfew resolution to include several specific proposals.

Included in the amendments were the appointment of nine private citizens to join two regular constables and one deputy sheriff in patrolling the Town, with Rhinecliff the focal point.

Another amendment was spelling out the hours of the curfew from 10 p.m. Oct. 31 to 5 a.m. Nov. 1, when all residents of the town and outsiders under the age of 18 must remain off the streets.

Town Attorney Silas Frazier said that the specially appointed men would retain the status of "temporary constable" for this specific evening.

And three specific duties to be performed by these men were included in the amendment resolution. They are: to prevent loitering of those under 18 during the specified hours; to protect against vandalism of any kind; and to protect against litter and debris "of a hazardous nature" in the streets.

Supervisor William Allen noted that he had had a "good reaction" from people in the town on the curfew, and that the purpose is not to detract from Halloween fun for children, but to make sure the vandalism and harassment of the past does not occur this year.

A provision in the original curfew, passed earlier this month, said that no fine of more than $25 could be imposed for unlawful loitering.

Frazier expressed an opinion that the intimidation of such a "massive force" should be enough to forestall any arrests.

Meanwhile the kids were lined up for half a block last night, waiting to get into what seems to be the scariest Haunted House to date put together by the Rhinebeck Rotary Club.

Even the teenagers were walking softly and sometimes crawling along the passageways of the converted old barn behind the Beekman Arms.

It is the third annual Haunted House, and the idea has grown by leaps and snarls. There were more than 4,000 paid admissions to the spectacle last year, and from the looks of the opening crowd, the spooks will not crave for human company.

The Haunted House will be open today from 4 to 11 p.m.; Saturday from 2-11 p.m.; and added hours Sunday from 4-6 p.m.

The internal workings put the carnival sideshows to shame. Chairman Peter Troy has estimated that about 50 people have been working for the past two months to get the numerous attractions into shape.

Warning remarks are whispered down the line of waiting youngsters, testifying to the fact that Wolfman's cage is really not too strong, and the so-called quiet room is deceptively named—the giant spider occasionally forsakes its lair in search of tasty morsels.

If your heart gives out before the journey's end, Satan will be on hand to guide you to the "Final Resting Place," conveniently located within the shrouded confines of the ancient building.

Reports of lights and sounds emanating from the Haunted House long after closing time are vehemently denied by Village Police.

State Trooper Is Found Dead

A 39-year-old state trooper was found dead at his home in near-by New Windsor Thursday, and a State Police spokesman said the death resulted from a possibly self-inflicted gunshot wound.

According to the spokesman, the service revolver of Sgt. Raymond Gavigan was found near his body.

An autopsy was ordered, but the result was not available. Gavigan had been with the State Police Thruway detail since 1958. When he failed to report to work Thursday, another trooper was sent to Gavigan's home, the spokesman said.

Multi-Media Center Function Is Discussed

KINGSTON The function of the Multi-Media Center in the local public school system was the subject of a talk at the Kingston Kiwanis Club by Mrs. Freida Dingee, in conjunction with the observance of American Education Week.

Funded by the Federal Government, the Center's purpose is to help children who have difficulties in reading, said the speaker. Pupils from the second to the sixth grade are primarily the ones now being helped — children, selected by teachers, who are "below the potential in learning to read."

The specialized instruction of the Center helps to meet the reading potential. Mrs. Dingee stated that 85 per cent of the children have normal reading through the medium of eyes and ears, but 15 per cent need aid because of "perceptual difficulties." She emphasized that these children needing help need understanding and should not be condemned, that the younger the child the easier it is to correct the problems.

Chest Follow-up Set on Saturday

KINGSTON It was announced today by Mrs. Lillian Salapatis and Miss Marion Tongue, co-chairmen of the Community Organization Division for this year's Ulster County Community Chest campaign, that there will be a follow-up house-to-house solicitation for Kingston this weekend.

The two Community Chest volunteers said that while the door-to-door effort was largely a one day event in most of the areas outside the City of Kingston, a follow-up operation will be required in the city because of the vast number of names to be called upon.

According to the Community Organization Chairmen some areas of Kingston were completely solicited last weekend, while other areas were only partially covered by the Ulster County Community Chest volunteers. It is anticipated that before the current fund raising campaign is over on Nov. 6 every family within the area covered by the Ulster County Community Chest solicitation effort will have been given the opportunity of making their contribution to the Community Chest and its 15 member agencies. Both Mrs. Salapatis and Miss Tongue said that every effort will be exerted by the Chest workers not to call upon homes which were solicited last Sunday, but they added that there were bound to be some homes which will be contacted again, and they hoped that the public would excuse any such duplication of effort. Chairmen said that some such duplication could be avoided by anyone who has already contributed to the 1970-71 Ulster County Community Chest campaign if they would display their "We Give" window stickers. The house-to-house phase of the Ulster County Community Chest drive in Kingston is being headed up this year by members of the Kingston Jaycees under the chairmanship of Victor Locke and James Riggins, and they are being aided by a corps of more than 200 volunteer solicitors from each of the city's 13 wards. It was also pointed out that in addition to taking pledges for the Ulster County Community Chest the volunteers will be providing each household called upon with information about the Chest agencies, the new Ulster County Community Chest referral service, the "Helping Hand", and an application from the Chest's newest agency, the Ulster County Blood Bank.

20 Sticking To Goal of Kicking Habit

Of the 25 persons who started the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking Sunday night in Kingston, 20 have stuck to their guns and no longer smoking.

Pastor Dan Schiffbauer of the Five-Day Plan, who reports the outcome of the program, says that he believes these 20 are well over the hump. He warned, however, that they were not necessarily free of the tobacco habit, even though they had not smoked for several days. "The habit pattern is still there. But these folks have proved that they can get rid of it, and it will be much easier for them to manage their problems."

The minister-physician team urged buddies to continue to contact each other even though the formal course was completed. "The next two months," they said, "can be critical, for there is a tendency to relax the vigil against those patterns of living which fit into the smoking habit, and almost without thinking, a one-time smoker can fall into the habit again."

For those who feared they would gain weight now that they were not smoking, the physician prescribed a hearty breakfast, a balanced lunch and a light meal at night.

Participants signed decision cards Thursday night, indicating they chose not to smoke. They will carry these with them as a reminder. Pastor Schiffbauer said that the open discussion period, during which participants related their experience with the "battle" indicated a real spirit of enthusiasm in marked contrast to similar periods at the first of the week.

New Paltz Discussion - Community Swim Park

By BRUCE KAUFMAN
NEW PALTZ

The details of a third of a million dollar community swim park for the Town of New Paltz were presented and discussed at an informational meeting at the Middle School here Thursday night.

The meeting was set up by the New Paltz Town Board in order to permit town residents to comment on the proposal which calls for the development of a swimming pool, bathhouse, and parking facilities on a 25-acre site, in the center of the township, just north of the Village of New Paltz.

The land was donated to the town by Jack Erman, a New Paltz resident.

The informational meeting was conducted very informally with the approximately 40 town residents in attendance engaging in an active dialogue with the architects, who designed the proposed swim facility, and the Town Board which authorized it.

The plan, submitted by the architects, representing the firm of Gionta and Loedy of Poughkeepsie, called for the development of a large circular pool, divided pie-like into areas for swimmers and non-swimmers. They suggested that in accordance with state recommendations about 80 per cent of the pool should be set aside for non-swimmers.

This suggestion was disputed by several residents, who felt that a larger segment of the pool should be provided for swimming and diving.

Surprisingly, there was less discussion on the issues of cost and financing of the project, which the architects predict will involve an outlay of about $340,000. However, at least 50 per cent of the cost will be assumed by the state if the facility conforms to certain state established criteria for community recreation areas.

Town of New Paltz Supervisor, Anthony Moriello, who attended the meeting along with the four members of the Town Board, explained that the town's portion of the cost would be derived from a long term bond issue, which would increase the average family's tax burden by about $5.

Moriello also indicated that a small, no more than $10 per family per year usage fee would be instituted to finance the annual operating costs of the swim park.

The Town Board has been actively working on the swim park proposal since May, upon receiving a petition signed by more than 1,000 town residents which accentuated the need for a public swimming facility in the community. However, before the proposal can be acted upon it must be aired at another public hearing and approved by the state.

Town officials predict that if all goes well the swim park will be completed by next summer.

Rhinebeck Budget . . . A Postponement

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK

The proposed 1971 Town of Rhinebeck budget was postponed for four or five days to search out some possible cuts in the highway fund.

At a public hearing Thursday night, criticism was mild from the less than 20 persons in attendance.

Town Democratic Chairman Paul Gmeiner stated that the Democrats felt that salary increases should be made during a local election year, not an off year, and he reiterated his statement that the budget hearing should be held prior to the elections, as was done last year and this year.

The budget, as it now stands, will raise town taxes about $1.13 per thousand outside the village and about 55 cents in the village.

It came out through questioning on the $1,200 allocated for the town's property in Rhinecliff at the old ferry dock, that a long range tentative plan by the town proposes the ferry dock serve only as a small boat launching site and try to develop riverfront property about a mile north at Long Dock.

The Long Dock property is owned by Penn Central Railroad. Justice DeWitt Gurnell said that a member of the State Conservation Department had suggested development of that property for recreation, as it has more space, contains a natural beach, and also is one of the more historically valuable spots in the town.

The subject of town beautification as an item in the budget drew some fire, as one resident claimed it should be "wiped off the books."

Beautification is a new item of $3,480. It includes the hiring of about six students for six weeks during the summertime through the Hometown Beautification Program, along with a supervisor.

Judge Gurnell came to the defense of this item on two counts. He claimed that the money would be well spent in hiring the youths who have little to do; and he noted that the so-called "riverfront people," including the Astors, Mortons and Vanderbilts of yesteryear, no longer invested large sums of money in town beautification.

Gurnell said that some of the teenagers in the town who don't have the money to pay the fines levied against them are put to work picking up beer cans or even painting the jail.

James Hawco asked why Allen had so far not fulfilled a campaign promise to set up a highway capital reserve fund. Allen replied that this will be undertaken this year in planning, and that the new Irwin Plan for highways will help facilitate the funding in 1972.

Allen summarized his philosophy of budget-making by saying, "I think some Town Boards in the past have really scalped the budget" because of criticism at public hearings but "I thought we'd work it a little differently this year."

In fact, several persons expressed the opinion that they would like to see larger allocations in certain areas, in spite of the increase in property taxes that would result.

Harry Hutton Is Eulogized

KINGSTON

A former veteran employee of The Daily Freeman was eulogized during a special dinner meeting of the newspaper's 20-Year Club members at the Kirkland Hotel Thursday night.

Harry S. Hutton, business manager of The Freeman until his retirement on March 26, 1969, was the subject of the memorial presented by the New York State Publishers Association. The memorial resolution for Hutton, who died April 20 this year, was adopted at the association's annual convention in Albany.

Hutton was named business manager of The Freeman in 1967 when the newspaper was purchased by Mid-Hudson Publications, Inc. He was treasurer of the 20-Year Club, which he organized.

The Publisher's resolution cited Hutton's long service with The Daily Freeman as well as his civic affiliations including Firemen's organizations, Masonic lodges among others as well as active participation as a member and officer of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer.

Announcement of the Publisher's eulogy was made at the dinner by Richard L. Treat, vice-president and general manager of The Freeman.

Fish Cites Activities Of Present Congress

NEW PALTZ

Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., told a luncheon gathering of Rotarians here Thursday that the United States Congress must take on a more active role in formulating government policy particularly in the area of international relations.

Congressman Fish, who is currently seeking reelection from the reapportioned 28th Congressional District, noted however, that at the same time the Congress, itself, must institute wide-scale reforms to reassume this authority.

The speech, at Dominick's Restaurant, in New Paltz, was the latest in a continuing series of weekly speeches arranged by the program committee of the New Paltz-Highland Rotary Club.

Reflecting on his freshman term in the House of Representatives, Fish stressed that there was an urgent need for Congressional reform particularly regarding the archaic committee system.

"We started on the road to reform this year," he said, "but the seniority establishment blocked the way."

Nevertheless, Fish noted that the present Congress has been very active and productive. Specifically he cited Congressional action in reversing the course of the Vietnam War, cutting back defense spending, fighting inflation, and combating the environmental crisis, he called "the most important issue today next to world peace."

"I question whether you can point to any era where there has been so much change and accomplishment," he said.

The Republican congressman commented briefly about the problems and challenges of campaigning in his newly reapportioned Congressional District, which now encompasses nine counties and 6,000 square miles.

Regarding the issue of water pollution for example, Fish pointed out that in addition to pollution in the Hudson River, he now has to worry about the Mohawk, the Susquehanna and the Delaware.

When questioned on his prospects for victory at the polls Tuesday—some polls show Fish will get a heavy per cent of the vote on Election Day—the Congressman declined to issue an "overconfident statement."

"I don't want to dissuade any voter from going to the polls to cast his ballot for me and the rest of the Republican ticket," he said.

Swiss Newspaper Publisher Tours The Daily Freeman

By DOROTHY A. NAREL

A Swiss newspaper publisher visited the Freeman offices on Wednesday, Oct. 29 in order to compare, first hand, the facilities here with those in her own country. She is Mrs. Margarete Hummel, publisher of "Limmat Thaler" and sister of Hurley resident Mrs. Alice Ehram. They were accompanied by Mrs. H. Van Wyck Darrow, former Freeman society editor.

This is Mrs. Hummel's fourth visit to the United States and she is enjoying every minute of it. In talking with her, it was interesting to note that Mrs. Hummel's newspaper, which is published three times a week, confines its advertising to one page, does not print engagements or weddings and satisfies its distaff readers with serializations of good books. The "Limmat Thaler" is not delivered by newsboys but mailed at approximately 11 a.m. with readers receiving their copies the same day in the late afternoon.

Mrs. Hummel, whose great, great aunt was the originator of the now famous Hummel figurines, also remarked about the "large newspaper staff." The "Limmat Thaler" depends in great part on stringers for its news coverage and when the staff isn't working on the newspaper, they are busy printing stationery, cards and other special projects. Its circulation is approximately 11,000.

Mrs. Hummel's daughter will be making history in Switzerland when she completes her training as a printer. She will be the second Swiss woman to be trained in this craft — unusual for a woman by Swiss standards.

Radio and television gets very different treatment in Switzerland also, according to Mrs. Hummel. There is a decided absence of commercialism and what advertising is done is relegated to a specific time period. Swiss citizens owning radios and television sets pay a tax to the government. The government schedules programming. Both Mrs. Hummel and her sister agreed that quality programming is emphasized. Asked if she felt the Swiss were getting unbiased news coverage, Mrs. Hummel answered in the affirmative. "We get the same UPI and AP news you get and we have Swiss reporters in all parts of the world," Mrs. Hummel felt the system worked very well.

Mrs. Hummel and her sister feel American women are far more involved in community and civic affairs than their Swiss sisters. "We are still more preoccupied with our homes and children," Mrs. Ehram said. Both agreed about the beauty of Ulster County with Mrs. Hummel saying, "I wasn't at home-sick this time — I think it's because I am not doing so much sightseeing as meeting and visiting with American families." Her sister has been in the United States for the past seven years, four years of which have been spent in Hurley. Mr. Ehram is employed by IBM.

MAKE-YOUR-OWN SANDWICH PARTY ... GETS EVERYONE'S VOTE

County Players to be Hosts For Regional Competition

On Saturday starting at 10:30 a.m., County Players will host the Regional Competition of the New York State Theatre Festival Association, at Champlain Hall, Marist College, Poughkeepsie.

Theatre groups from the eastern New York regions will compete for the right to represent the area in the State-wide competition at Corning in November. Among the entries are the Dutchess Community College Players Guild, The Sullivan County Drama Workshop from Monticello, the Performing Arts Workshop from Woodstock, and County Players of Dutchess County.

Professor Mort Clark, of the Drama Department of Westchester Community College is the professional judge of the day-long festival, to which the public is invited at a nominal admission fee.

Marist College is making available its cafeteria for use by patrons of the competition during the luncheon and dinner intermissions. Peter Edman, Town of Poughkeepsie, the chairman of the event said that the entertainment provided will be of a nature suitable for the entire family and that the admission fee is for all or any part of the activities. It is expected, he added, that the program will run from its starting time of 10:30 a.m. until approximately 10:30 at night, allowing for sufficient time for the judging and announcement of the winner.

County Players is providing the technical assistance for the festival, with Mr. Edman as its head. Mrs. Irving Wildman, Wappingers Falls, stage manager; John Neal Jr., Hopewell Junction, house manager; Rachel Friedenberg, Town of chairman. Additional information may be obtained from any of the chairmen.

New York, N.Y. (NAPS)—No matter what your political persuasion, here's a party idea that wins everyone's vote. It's a help-yourself, make-your-own sandwich buffet — appropriate for many occasions during these coming months. With an array of cold cuts, cheese, breads and special sandwich spreads you can entertain almost effortlessly while listening to speeches and debates, or simply having a neighborhood grass roots gathering of fellow workers for the party of your choice.

All of the foods for the buffet can be prepared well ahead of time, leaving you free to join in the arguments, discuss the issues or watch exciting developments on TV. Get as many different breads as you can so guests can pick their favorites; offer a selection of cold cuts and cheese, roast beef, sliced chicken or key and perhaps a big roast ham. Provide a mixed sandwich filling such as Shrimp and seasoned real mayonnaise spreads to add interest to the sandwich creations. Set out a choice of salads, too — a tossed green with Blue Cheese dressing and a hearty macaroni salad should take care of all shades of opinion.

To quench thirsts that are sure to develop during the evening make up a big pitcher of iced tea. It's a nation-wide favorite, year after year, on anyone's ticket. Because it's non-filling and non-fattening you can drink all you want, hour after hour, and its clean, fresh taste stands up through hours of oratory.

Iced Tea By Pitcherful

Here's a simple, fool-proof method of making a big pitcher of iced tea. Keep it at room temperature until ready to serve, then pour over ice and serve with lemon and sugar to taste.

1. Bring one quart of freshly drawn cold water to a full rolling boil in a saucepan.
2. Remove from the heat and immediately add one-third measuring cup loose tea or 15 teabags.
3. Stir. Cover and let stand five minutes.
4. Strain again and strain into a pitcher holding an additional quart of cold water.

Note: If you run out of iced tea during the evening, you can easily make up another pitcherful if you have a jar of instant tea on hand. Just allow two rounded tablespoons of instant tea powder to each quart of freshly drawn cold water. Stir, add ice and serve.

Tossed Green Salad

For the tossed green salad, select a variety of greens with enough western, iceberg lettuce to give crispness to the salad. Add Italian onion rings, peeled and thinly sliced cucumber and unpeeled sliced radish. If putting sliced tomatoes on the sandwich-making buffet, leave tomatoes out of the salad.

Choice of dressing for the salad is always a personal one, but one of the most popular tossed salad dressings today is Blue Cheese Dressing. There are several ways to make it. One of the easiest is to thin real mayonnaise with milk, stir in crumbled blue cheese and chill several hours so that the flavors mingle.

The trick of thinning a good quality real mayonnaise works wonders for a number of dressings. Try thinning real mayonnaise with a bottled Italian dressing for example — very good! Another easy and unusual dressing is made by thinning one-half cup real mayonnaise with one cup plain yogurt. This is good for either fruit or green salads.

Avocado Sandwich Spread

One cup mashed avocado (one large avocado)
One cup cottage cheese
One-third cup real mayonnaise
One tablespoon lemon juice
Two teaspoons finely chopped onion
One teaspoon salt
Dash Worcestershire sauce
Mix together avocado, cottage cheese, real mayonnaise, lemon juice, finely chopped onion, salt and Worcestershire sauce. Chill. Makes about two cups.

Shrimp Salad Sandwich Filling

One and one-half cups finely chopped, cooked, shelled and deveined shrimp
Four hard-cooked eggs, finely chopped
One-half cup real mayonnaise
Two tablespoons ketchup
Two tablespoons lemon juice
One-quarter teaspoon onion salt
Dash pepper
Dash Cayenne pepper
Mix together shrimp, eggs, real mayonnaise, ketchup, lemon juice, onion salt, pepper and cayenne pepper. Chill at least one hour before serving. Makes about two cups.

Caper Cheese Mayonnaise

One (three-ounce) package cream cheese, softened
Two tablespoons real mayonnaise
One-half teaspoon caper liquid
One tablespoon capers
Mix together cream cheese, real mayonnaise and caper liquid. Stir in capers. Chill. Makes about one-half cup.

Olive Mayonnaise

One-half cup real mayonnaise
One-quarter cup chopped pimiento stuffed green olives
Mix together real mayonnaise and olives. Chill. Makes about three-quarter cup.

Watercress Mayonnaise

One cup watercress leaves (about one-quarter bunch)
One-half cup real mayonnaise
One teaspoon lemon juice
One-quarter teaspoon garlic salt

Place all ingredients in blender. Cover and run about 15 seconds just until watercress is finely chopped. Chill. Makes about three-quarter cup.

Hearty Macaroni Salad

One (eight-ounce) package macaroni
One to one and one-half cups real mayonnaise
One-third cup chopped celery
One to two tablespoons chopped onion
One and one-half teaspoons salt
One-quarter teaspoon pepper
One-quarter cup shredded carrot
One-quarter cup chopped green pepper
One-half cup cauliflowerets
One (four-ounce) can whole or sliced mushrooms, drained
Cook macaroni in boiling salted water according to directions on package. Drain; rinse with cold water and drain again. Stir in real mayonnaise. Chill. Add celery, onion, salt and pepper, carrot, green pepper, cauliflowerets and mushrooms. Chill before serving. Makes five and one-half cups salad.

Divorce Lawyer Says Women to Blame for Most Divorces

MELBOURNE (AP) — One of Australia's leading divorce lawyers believes newspapers should run a headline once a week reading: "Men, don't get married."

And the lawyer is a woman — Joan Rosanove QC (Queen's Counsel) who recently celebrated her 50th wedding anniversary.

"I was lucky — I got a good man," she said.

But Mrs. Rosanove, 74, blames women for 19 out of every 20 marriage breakdowns.

"Often, I looked across my office desk at a woman seeking legal help and thought "poor fellow," she said.

"For some reason, the woman failed the man. Women don't work on the job of making the man happy."

"Admittedly, there's always the man who is no good. But he's a rarity compared with the woman."

Mrs. Rosanove said that despite this, the law was almost always on the woman's side.

"I've known women to take a man for everything he's worth, then demand more," she said. "The sadness is the way judges give it to them."

Mrs. Rosanove said her divorce cases warned her how marriages could go wrong.

"Many times I secretly touched wood in court and thought how lucky it was that the woman in the witness box wasn't me," said Mrs. Rosanove.

"The secret of marriage is working together."

Her husband, Edward Rosanove, 73, a former dermatologist, said he attributed his years of married bliss thus:

"I always chewed on a pipe during an argument and so

I always kept my mouth shut.

"The only damage was to four pipes."

"I always apologized if I was wrong and I sent her off to work to make her life more interesting."

"As a cook she was a good lawyer."

Fashion-wise: 'A Woman's Leg May Soon Be Dead as Dodo's'

Paris (UPI) — Knees are becoming extinct throughout Europe and soon a woman's leg may be as dead as the dodo, fashion-wise.

With the midi-maxi look already in the stores for two months, women throughout the continent dutifully are hiding their knees under long skirts and pants, and covering any remaining trace of leg with boots.

In Paris, which remains the fashion capital of the world, despite periodic uprisings in London, New York and Rome, the fall uniform is a midi skirt split to above the knee, wide leather belt at the high boots, fringed handbag and sleeveless maxi coat.

"Women like to look alike," says designer Hubert de Givenchy, and Parisiennes proved it the other night at a plush discotheque where long skirts and boots were unanimous despite steam-bath temperatures.

Munich: Spring ready-to-wear showings feature the long look. Designers predict total indoctrinating of women. Newspapers have dropped their anti-midi cry and about-faced to sing praises of new "feminine styles."

Amsterdam: The mini is out. Some shops report they are unable to keep up with the midi-maxi demand. Trousers still are in favor as a compromise.

East Europe: No maxis or midis are seen on the streets of Moscow but most trends are decade late in the Russian capital and clothes are too expensive to be abandoned overnight. Homemade long styles already have appeared in Warsaw and other East European capitals.

Madrid: The young set and fashion-conscious women have fallen into the midi-maxi army. Minis are scarcely seen in shop windows and a sudden cold spell brought crowds into shops to buy the leg-wrapping styles.

Stockholm: One newspaper launched an anti-midi campaign with free protest buttons demanding "No to midi-maxi." Another newspaper reported women were against the maxi 15-1 in a poll.

However, despite the sniping criticism maxis and midis are gaining some ground in Stockholm "in" places. Popular uniform this fall is mini skirt, as mini as before, masked by a maxi or midi length coat.

The feeling in Europe is that this is a transition period and any length goes from old minis to maxis plus pants, short or long. It is even possible that fashion will permit knee-baring skirts a while longer on vacations and hot days. But in general, the lights are going out on legs all over Europe.

Best Food Buys for Weekend

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S.D.A.'s Consumer and Marketing Service reports that late October shoppers will find a fairly good supply of meats, a smaller supply of vegetables, but a variety of fruits to choose from this weekend.

Meat counters will have a good choice of beef, including various kinds of steaks, roasts and ground beef. In pork, shoppers will find good supplies of chops, smoked picnic, Boston butts and bacon. Broiler-fryers are the leading item at the poultry counter.

Among the fruits, those in more abundant supply include apples from this year's big crop, also grapefruit, dried prunes, bananas, and frozen concentrated orange juice.

The Department of Commerce reports canned salmon, fish sticks and portions and canned tuna in excellent supply.

Foods on USDA's plentiful foods list for October are fresh apples, applesauce, apple juice, pork, broiler-fryers, dry beans, canned peaches, canned salmon, onions, eggs, potatoes and dried prunes.

Former First Lady's Novel Bound to be Best Seller

By HELEN THOMAS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lady Bird Johnson's book "A White House Diary" is bound to be a best seller in Washington, at least.

The VIP's and "has beens" alike are gleaming the index for reference to themselves. And it's one of the few books about his administration that former President Lyndon B. Johnson says he has thoroughly enjoyed reading. "I'm writing one myself," was Johnson's curt reply when asked if he had read George Reedy's "The Twilight of the Presidency." Reedy was a longtime press secretary to Johnson.

Mrs. Johnson's book already has reaped some flattering reviews. But one Washington social figure, Barbara Hower, who fell out of grace with the Johnson ladies, read the book with a more critical eye in doing a commentary for the Washington Post.

Proudest touter of the book is press secretary, Liz Carpenter who stood by Mrs. Johnson as she taped several television shows in New York for future viewing.

Liz will travel to England with Mrs. Johnson to launch the book abroad on Nov. 26, Thanksgiving Day. Mrs. Johnson also is taking along her daughter, Luci Nugent, who always felt deprived because she had never got to travel on presidential trips aboard.

Marist Great Contemporary Americans Dinner Planned for Saturday, Nov. 14

The fourth annual Marist College Great Contemporary Americans Dinner will be held on Saturday, Nov. 14, in the Champagne Hall Dining Room, on the Marist College, Poughkeepsie, campus. Dinner will be at 7:30 p.m., preceded by a cocktail hour at 6:30 p.m. Charles H. Dyson, dinner chairman, stated this year the college will honor Dr. E. Gordon MacKenzie, Millbrook and Dr. William P. Mahoney, Millbrook.

Dr. MacKenzie has been practicing in Millbrook since 1923. He is the son of Dr. David Hugh MacKenzie, who practiced medicine in Millbrook from 1890 until his death in 1929. Dr. MacKenzie is a past president of the Dutchess County Medical Society, president of the Dutchess County Chapter of the American Academy of General Practice, served as health officer of the Towns of Washington and Union Vale and the Village of Millbrook, for 35 years.

He was the attending physician for the Millbrook School for Boys for 30 years, Greer School for 41 years, Millbrook Central School System and Millbrook Fire Department since 1923, and Bennett College since 1944. two years, and provided free dental service at the Cardinal Hayes School for 25 years. He is a member of the Knights of Columbus, Dutchess County Dental Society and a director of the Bank of Millbrook. Vice Chairmen for the dinner are Mrs. John Mackenzie, Vincent J. Stearns, and Robert W. Shalen.

Calvin Impresses Fellow Pros

By GARY KALE
UPI Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UPI)—Every time in a while a player of Calvin Murphy's calibre manages to make the otherwise blasé basketball pros hunt for appropriate complimentary phrases.

Murphy had an All-America rating going for him when he entered the National Basketball Association this season. The unknown quantity was his ability to stock at the "midget" height of five-feet, nine inches.

"He'll stock," says Dave DeBusschere, the Knicks' muscular forward who was one of those impressed with Murphy's speed, strength and scoring prowess Thursday night.

"Anytime a rookie scores 12 points in a single quarter, I'm impressed," DeBusschere said. "He's strong for his size and putting him in the lineup with Elvin Hayes gives San Diego quite an inside-outside scoring combination. Still, that's only two. The Rockets need three more good players to pose a threat."

New York beat San Diego, 114-107, in the only NBA action of the night, but with a little bit of luck the Rockets could have come out on top.

They cut the Knicks lead to 109-107 on Murphy's 12th point of the fourth quarter with 51 seconds remaining. Willis Reed's basket and foul ended the threat.

Murphy, a University of Niagara standout last season, had a pro Calvin shooting his fantastic shooting display at Madison Square Garden. Included in the throng were 35 of Murphy's friends and relatives from nearby Norwalk, Conn.

San Diego, known as a helter-skelter aggregation last season, is jelling into a winning combination and Murphy seems to be the master molder of the Rocket's thrust toward loftier position in the final standings.

The team split its first 10 games, and Murphy almost put San Diego over the .500 mark with his outside shooting, driving layups and accuracy from the foul line. That accounted for 23 points. He hit seven of eight from the field and nine for 10 at the charity stripe during 25 minutes on the court.

"Defense is the biggest adjustment Murphy will have to make," says Rocket coach Alex

Hannum. "He's not on his own, like in college. In the pros, Calvin must fit into a team style."

New York's victory moved the Knicks a full game ahead of second place Philadelphia in the Atlantic Division race and added some notes to the already filled copybook carried by Detroit coach Bill Van Breda Kolff, who scouted the NBA champs for Saturday night's encounter here with the unbeaten Pistons.

Detroit is 9-0 for the season and the surprise early leader in the NBA.

"We never expected this kind of start," Van Breda Kolff admitted, "although it's the kind of beginning every coach hopes for. Some of our games were not too well played, but the mark of a good team is not to play well but still win."

The former Princeton coach, who tutored the Knicks' Bill Bradley to All America status, credits the presence of rookie Bob Lanier with stabilizing the team.

Lanier and Terry Driscoll provide the rookie ingredient, while Dave Bing and Jimmy Walker are the veteran pros who shore up the defense that has so bewildered other NBA teams this season.

Detroit's critical test is at hand. Unfortunately, it comes at a location that has been the graveyard of title hopes for invading teams.

Los Angeles, San Francisco and San Diego entered the Garden leading the Pacific Division at the moment of entry and departed minus the lead.

Flood Is About Ready to Sign

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The meeting was called solely to explain how much the participants made in the 1970 World Series—but all anyone wanted to know was whether Curt Flood will get anything from the Washington Senators in 1971.

For the first time Thursday, a dent appeared in the armor of baseball's renegade outfielder, still enmeshed in a $4.1 million antitrust suit to overturn baseball's controversial reserve clause which binds a player to a club for life unless he is sold, traded or released.

Senators' owner Bob Short is trying to sign Flood, who sat out the 1970 season after being traded from St. Louis to Philadelphia and who—until Thursday—had insisted he would never sign a baseball contract containing the reserve clause.

At Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's Fifth Avenue offices, the $2,599,270 gross receipts from the five-game World Series was neatly divided up among the winning Baltimore Orioles, losing Cincinnati Reds and various other participants and teams—then Kuhn reiterated his stance that he "would not approve any contract without a reserve clause."

At the same time Flood said he was considering signing with Washington because, "like everybody else, I've had some business reverses and I need the money—but I still think the reserve clause stinks!"

Flood made his comments in an interview with New York

Post writer Maury Allen.

The 32-year-old outfielder with the .293 career batting average in 14 major league seasons said Short offered him more than the $90,000 he earned in 1969, his last year with St. Louis. Washington gave the Phils a play for the right to deal with Flood.

Kuhn said Short has kept him apprised of the contract talks with Flood "and feels he can sign him. But there's litigation which obviously creates a problem."

"Flood is concerned that if he signs he prejudices his case and the defendants are concerned that if he signs he prejudices their case."

The defendants include Kuhn, the 24 major league teams and presidents Charles Feeney and Joe Cronin of the National and American leagues. A federal judge ruled against Flood in the initial phase of the suit and an appeal is pending.

Kuhn said he has "no prejudice against Flood playing ball while the appeal is being made."

THE LOST CADDIE — Angie Argea (L) Jack Nicklaus' caddy since 1963, failed to show up at Paradise Valley Country Club at Jack's tee-off time Thursday, forcing Jack to play first round of the Sahara Invitational with borrowed fairway woods and irons and a "retired" putter and driver of his own. The two are pictured in practice round Wednesday. Nicklaus said it was the first time he ever let a caddy take his clubs home with him. He shot a 76. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

'Improving' Aaron Leader With '64'

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — "I think I'm starting to play a little better," Tommy Aaron understated after carding a magnificent 64 in the opening round of the $100,000 Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament.

The 33-year-old Aaron, in a rut since winning the Atlanta Classic earlier this year, went out Thursday and tore par to shreds, ripping out nine birdies in his round over the par 36-37-71 Paradise Valley Country Club Course.

Wings Top Bruins, 5-3

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings, led by two old smoothies, polished off the Stanley Cup champion Boston Bruins 5-3 Thursday night in a National Hockey League game.

Detroit's Alex Delvecchio put in his 40th and 401st NHL goals in a career that is now in its 20th season. Aiding Delvecchio's effort was another NHL veteran, Gordie Howe, who pasted up his 100th regular season assist on the second Delvecchio tally.

The slow starting Wings have a 3-6-1 record this season but no one would have known that Thursday night as the Wings outshot Boston 43-35 in breaking a four game winless streak.

The Wings had the lead three times in the game before they finally held it against a steady Boston attack. As Coach Tom Johnson of Boston said, "We caught them at a bad time when they were desperate."

Scoring for Detroit in addition to Delvecchio were Howe and Dale Rolfe. Boston goals were scored by Phil Esposito, Ed Westfall and Don Marcotte.

Wing Coach Ned Harkness has assured Detroit's No. 1 line of Howe, Delvecchio and Frank Mahovlich that Howe is out of the defenseman role that was part of early season experimentation by the freshman coach.

In the only other NHL game scheduled the Philadelphia Flyers took the Los Angeles Kings for a three-goal third period and handed them a 3-1 loss.

King's Jolts State's Tourney Chances, 1-0

By IRA FUSFELD

BRIARCLIFF MANOR

Hopes for a post-season tournament bid for the New Paltz State Hawks took a severe nose-dive Thursday as they were shut out by King's College, 1-0.

It was the Hawks' second loss of the season after nine straight wins, preventing them from setting a new varsity record of 10 in a row. Despite the fact that New Paltz dominated the contest, the defeat put Coach Bob Durkin's team in the position of having to win their remaining games to even be considered for a tournament.

"This just about kills our chances for the NIAA tournament," said a very depressed Durkin, "and it doesn't look good for the others."

It was a heart-breaking game for New Paltz, quite similar to their other 1-0 loss to Buffalo State in the season's opener. The Hawks put 37 shots on net to King's 19 and often would pound away for three or four minutes at a time but without the ball going in.

"We won everything but the game," Durkin moaned, "but fate wasn't with us."

The deciding goal didn't occur until late in the last quarter. King's sent a long clearing kick upfield to Mike Karpida who went down the wing and crossed the ball to the Purple Knights top scorer Dave Lowery. His shot at 14:30 connected.

"It was a good play and Bobby (Sanborn, the New Paltz goalie) didn't have a chance," said Durkin.

New Paltz was far from being at full strength for the ballgame. Winger Bernie Schaeffer was out with broken ribs; full-back Dave Iyassere was still bothered by an injured foot and didn't play; and forward Walter Blair was only available for one half because of a groin injury.

The result was particularly demoralizing for New Paltz because the team had learned just prior to departing for here that Plattsburgh, whom NP had shut out, played Buffalo State to a 1-1 tie Wednesday. A Hawk win would have bettered their chances of moving up even further on the New York State Coaches top ten.

New Paltz is currently fifth, Buffalo State second, but both will undoubtedly drop as a result of these two games.

The Hawks' prospects of winning the rest of their matches rests on just how well they can rebound from this loss when they meet an easy Geneseo

State team on the road Saturday. Following this game, the other three are versus Brockport (sixth in the State), Bridgeport and Westfield, all away, all tough.

Wins in these games could be impressive enough to still earn them that much sought after post-season opportunity they're been pointing to all year.

New Paltz's record stands at 9-2.

Beavers Scare No. 6 Stanford

By BRUCE LOWITT

Associated Press Sports Writer

"With this game on Hal- lowe'en and The Great Pumpkin coming down," John Ralston was saying, "we've got to be scared to death."

Stanford's head football coach was smiling as he looked ahead to Saturday's encounter with Oregon State and its colorful, rotund coach, Dee Andros—but then, stranger things have hap- pened on the way to the Rose Bowl.

Like three years ago when bowl-bound Southern California ran into OSU and wound up with its only setback, a 3-0 stunner by Dee's Beavers.

Nevertheless, this looks like Stanford's year and, despite a threat by Oregon's 16th-ranked Ducks, it appears quarterback Jim Plunkett and his No. 6 in- dians will stay on the warpath toward the Pacific-8 Conference title and Pasadena on New Year's Day.

Stanford's Rose Bowl oppo- sition—if the Indians do go all the way—will be all but decided as well Saturday. Second-ranked Ohio State collides with No. 20 Northwestern in the battle to de- termine Big Ten supremacy.

Both are undefeated in confer- ence competition—as is fifth- rated Michigan, ineligible for the bowl since it played in last New Year's Day's classic.

"It's the biggest game since I've been head coach," says Northwestern's Alex Agase. "Nobody beats me or my play- ers until they prove it on the field." Ohio State's Buckeyes are likely to do just that.

In other action involving The Associated Press' Top Twenty teams, top-ranked Texas hosts Southern Methodist, No. 3 Notre Dame visits Navy, Nebraska is at Colorado in a regionally tele- vised game which most of the country will see, and Michigan heads for Wisconsin.

Blefary Speaks at Red Hook

RED HOOK

He came to the New York Yankees this past Spring to replace Joe Pepitone and aid the Yanks to their best season in years.

Curt Blefary, husky six-foot 210 pounder, has seen major league action at first base, in the outfield, and behind the plate.

He will be the guest speaker at the annual Red Hook Little League Awards night Nov. 6 at St. Christopher's School.

Blefary originally signed with the Yankee organization in 1962. He was grabbed up by Baltimore in 1964 in the draft, and began his major league career in 1965 as a regular.

That year, his rookie season, he hit .260 and hit 22 home runs. In successive years, he never hit for the average, but pounded out a steady 23, 22 and then 15 home runs for Baltimore.

He was traded to Houston in 1968, and came to the Yankees this year, where he helped New York to a second place finish.

victory with another sensational goal tending job. He had 17 saves, several bordering on the fantastic.

"It was probably the best game of his career," said Coach Hunter. "He had to come out of the goal two or three times and turned back a variety of Monticello assaults on the goal."

John Gorman set up the Kingston score with kick across the goal which Barton followed up and squeezed it into the up- per corner of the goal.

Monticello outshot Kingston on goal, 17-15, reflecting the tremendous defense on both sides. Coach Hunter felt his Maroons were "a bit flat" in the first, but "they rebounded well in the second half with George Genuleas leading with an excel- lent performance." The Ma- roons limited the Monties to only three shots on goal in the second half.

"Genuleas set the example in the second half," said Hunter in unstinting praise, "and that gave us the lift we needed."

The league champions of the DUSO (Middletown), Rockland and Orange already have re- ceived invitations to the Section 9 tournament. It now remains for the tournament committee to choose between Kingston and Clarkstown.

"Naturally, they're touting Clarkstown down that way," Hunter observed, "but I think our team is just as good. We'd like a chance to play them to prove it."

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Heavyweight Oscar "Ringo" Bonavena is a crowd-pleasing fighter with a wide-in style. He talks a good fight, too.

Earlier Thursday, Madison Square Garden Corp. announced in New York City its plans to gain full control of Roosevelt Raceway Inc. The company al- ready owns 37.5 per cent of the track, and has agreed to offer to Transnational Development Corp. of New York 2 3-4 shares of its own common stock for each share of Transnational. If the plan is approved by stockholders and directors of both companies, Madison Square Garden Corp. will gain an additional 26.4 per cent in- terest in the track.

KHS Hosts Amsterdam

By IRA FUSFELD

KINGSTON

If you're going to Dietz Stadium Saturday to see the Maroons take on Amsterdam High School you probably won't have a very good time, unless, of course, you root for the visitors.

Kingston enters the contest without a win in five tries this season. They're a young club that's been hit by several in- juries and, as a result, the scores of their losses have gone from bad to worse. In Am- sterdam, Coach Tony Badalato and his forces will find very little to make them feel better.

Not only will Coach John Los bring in a team with a won-loss record of 4-1-1, but a team which has defeated two of KHS' conquerors and tied another.

Amsterdam has knocked off Linton and Troy and played a deadlock with Gloversville. Their only defeat was at the hands of Liverpool.

"We're good in everything," Los said frankly. "We're basically a ground team but our defense is even stronger than our offense."

Amsterdam is led by co- captain Mike Tuman, a running back and linebacker, whom Los calls "excellent." Behind him to supply the power when the upstate school has the ball is Dave Weissman, who also runs out of the backfield.

Defensive stalwarts include

Bob Gutowski, an end ("the best in the area," said Los), and Gary Palawski, co-captain, linebacker.

Los has seen the Maroons play three times this season and is smart enough not to give Kingston any added incentive by predicting an easy win.

KINGSTON International League bowlers have rolled a pair of "700" triples in the period from Sept. 3 through Oct. 21, but publication of the scores in The Freeman was withheld by a vote of league members.

The scores, meanwhile, were released to other area newspapers and local radio stations.

At a meeting on Sept. 2, the league members instructed secretary Joe Fautz not to release any scores to The Freeman until so notified. The move was in protest against The Freeman's new policy of not publishing team results.

None of the other mid-Hudson dailies—Middletown Record, Newburgh Evening News, or Poughkeepsie Journal—publish such results and The Freeman is the last newspaper in the valley to adopt such a policy.

On Oct. 28, the International League directors reversed themselves and notified Fautz that he could release the outstanding scores rolled since Sept. 2 for publication in The Freeman. The scores are published in deference to the fine performance of the individuals—and for no other reason. They are long past the normal deadline.

There were two major scores rolled—a 735 series by Big Bob Shelghtner, which was No. 1 in the area at the time it was bowled—and a 705, career-first by Bill Lawrence, which currently ranks fifth in the Top Ten.

Shelghtner also rolled the highest solo of the season—280—and backed it up with other games of 197 and 258. Lawrence put his series together with games of 215, 213 and 277.

Charlie's Rocket Car Wash established league highs of 1085 and 3055. Al Wood was credited with a 190 triplicate.

A 279 solo by Chris Gallo now rates third. Shelghtner packed another big one—682—now in 10th place and Jack Ferraro's 681 just missed the big board.

Prior to Oct. 28, some of the big scores included: Gallo 675, Doug Tyler 665, Shelghtner 662, McAndrews 662, Tiber Tomshaw 651, Irving Brown 650, Bob (T) Smith 649, Bruce Hinkley 645, Bill Glaser 645, George Washbourne 642.

Besides Shelghtner's 280 there was Gallo's 279, Bill Lawrence 277, Kildy Corrado 269, Ron Bruck 267, George Glaser 257 and Aubrey Berry 252.

Shelghtner's 682, off 213, 246, 223, led the Oct. 28 session. Sonny Barnes decked 247-618, George Glaser 235-606, Jack Ferraro 231 (216, 248, 217); Ron Brandt 233, 222-636; Frank Barroff 214-615; Bill Noreika 227-624, Marty Petersen 215-610; Bill Abrams 237-619; Hans Wolf 242.

Team highs were Wilber Oil 1008 and Port Ewen Pharmacy 2898.

HOOPLE MANOR
Egad, friends, the Hoople System of pigskin prognostication, functioning with the precision of a moon-landing team, continues to delight its followers and confound the other pigskin pundits.

Last week, on the local level, we hit five right, one wrong and a tie for a .715 winning percentage. On the collegiate level, we had an astonishing 40 right, 13 wrong for a .754 mark. To date, locally, your peerless prognosticator is winging along with 30 right, 12 wrong and three ties for a .698 mark. Nationally, we have 227 right, 103 wrong and four ties for a .702 mark. Not bad, hee, hee, not bad at all.

We do not choose to rest or our rather ample laurels, however, and have selected some Really Big Ones for you this week. Of particular interest is the Ohio State-Northwestern classic that will probably decide the ride to the Rose Bowl. Northwestern will win in a high-scoring upset, 38-28.

Here is a future pick. Both Texas and Notre Dame will win this week and will be rated one-two in the national standings. Texas will top SMU, 33-13. The Irish will stomp the Navy, 49-0. These teams will remain undefeated for the season and we'll face each other New Year's night in the Orange Bowl for the National Championship. Who will win that one? Wait and see folks. Notre Dame will come out on top, 22-20. Remember, you heard it here first. Ha-kaff, kaff, kaff!

On the local scene this week: HIGHLAND 28, ONTEORA 6
Coach Lem Atkins has Perry Monroe and Doug Geer. The Indians have Wayne Fredericks and Mike Gross. Onteora's defense is formidable, but the offense will keep them in the hole most of the afternoon.

AMSTERDAM 14, KINGSTON 6
Little is known about Amsterdam, except that they are a very powerful club. Kingston could make it close with Walt Houghtaling pitching to Dennis Harrison. But, it isn't very likely.

RONDOUT 14, NEW PALTZ 8
The Ganders got a big score in their 6-6 tie with Liberty and in the process, lost the outstanding talents of halfback Mike Alleca for the remainder of the year. George Wallack is also a question mark starter. Still, the Rondout contingent will bounce back with a 14-8 win over Coach John Ford's charges in what should be the Game of the Year.

PINE BUSH 16, MARLBORO 14
The Bushmen will start putting it together a little late. But not too late to upset the Dukes and flashy George Salinovich. Marlboro's offense will be hampered by the Pine Bush defense.

LIBERTY 28, WALLKILL 6
This one could be a conservative guess. If there are any more points to be scored, Bruce Rosencranse will score them. It could go much higher than I predicted, depending upon the mood of the Redskins' Coach. Ha-kaff, kaff, kaff!

SAUGERTIES 16, ROOSEVELT 14
Fred Seither's boys have found out how to pass block and not a minute too soon, as far as flinging Rich Koegel is concerned.

RED HOOK 8, PAWLING 0
The Red Raiders will do a little damage in Pawling-Land.

Rondout-New Paltz Clash Key to UCAL

By MORT LAFFIN

KINGSTON Rondout Valley High School's drive for the Ulster County Athletic League football crown suffered three major setbacks Saturday when the Ganders played host to the Redskins of Liberty.

Setback No. 1—Mike Alleca, star halfback and one of the leading rushers in the UCAL, suffered a broken ankle on a punt return and will be lost for the season.

Setback No. 2—George Wallack, leading candidate for All-UCAL honors at quarterback, suffered a bruised hip and muscle pull and is a doubtful starter in this Saturday's pivotal game at New Paltz.

Setback No. 3—Playing most of the game without their two stars, the Ganders had to settle for a 6-6 tie with Liberty, thus giving them a slim one-half game lead over high-flying Highland. Rondout has two games left, this one at New Paltz and next week at home against the always-tough Onteora Indians. Rondout must win both to take the crown.

Pele to Retire
CURITIBA, Brazil (UPI)—Pele, acknowledged as the world's greatest soccer player, said Wednesday he will retire from competition after he plays for the Brazilian team in the 1972 World Mini Cup championships.

Pele said he wants "to be finished with soccer before it finishes me."

Gander Coach John "Mickey" Million is naturally disheartened by the loss of Alleca and the question mark that Wallack's injury has created. However, he knows his boys and is quite optimistic about his team's chances to go all the way for the title.

"We will definitely miss Mike's running ability," said the Coach.

"He is one of the finest runners in the league. He gave us the outside threat and forced our opponents to double-cover him. This opened up our inside attack."

Harris for Alleca
Million went on: "Mike Harris, Orioles' Shares Worth $18,215"

NEW YORK (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles still can't beat those New York Mets—not necessarily on the baseball field but in the bank.

The Orioles, who came out second best to New York in the five-game 1969 World Series before crushing the Cincinnati Reds in the 1970 version of identical length, were rewarded Thursday with winning full shares of $18,215.78—just $122.40 per man below the record set by the Mets.

The reduction was due to poorer attendance. Last year 274,001 saw the National and American league's playoffs and 272,378 the World Series. This year only 194,867 attended the league championships and 253,183 saw the series—an overall drop of 98,329.

Baltimore awarded 31 full shares and 13 partial shares or cash awards while the Reds handed out 32 full shares of $13,687.59 and 15 partial shares or cash awards.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, losers to Cincinnati in the NL championships, collected 31 full shares of $5,913.49 and Minnesota Twins, beaten by the Orioles in the AL playoffs, received 32 full shares of $5,901.47.

Eight also rans—the second-place New York Yankees, Oakland A's, Chicago Cubs and Los Angeles Dodgers and third-place California Angels, Boston Red Sox, New York Mets and San Francisco Giants received full shares of from $1,272.34 to $267.84.

junior halfback, will step into the breach. He is as fast as Mike and scored the tying TD against the Redskins. He will do a good job for us, but our opponents may not consider him to be as big a threat as Alleca. At least I hope they won't.

"I could say that Wallack won't play Saturday. That his injury will keep him out of the game. But, that isn't my style. If it is at all possible, George will start. I'm pretty sure that if he doesn't reinjure his hip in practice, he will be ready for New Paltz," said the Coach.

This statement by Million about Wallack reaffirms what has been said about him all season long. George is a leader, on the field and off. He has a great quantity of intestinal fortitude (guts) and never gives up. George would play from a wheelchair if he had to and was allowed to. And, Million stated that George felt that he had let the side down because he couldn't continue in the Liberty game.

Ford — Excellent
"Ford (New Paltz High School's head coach John Ford) has done an outstanding job with his club," said Million.

"Bill Schiller is a tough, hard-nosed ball player and Harold Anderson is also outstanding and strong. Jay Ackert runs real well and can throw the ball. We expect a very, very tough game against them," concluded Million.

Highland plays at Onteora and, like Rondout, can ill-afford a loss. However, anything but a win by Coach Lem Atkins' boys seems unlikely. The Highlanders lost one game this season, the UCAL opener to Rondout, and are waiting in the wings for the Ganders to falter just once more.

Onteora, on the other hand, always tough defensively, thanks to an outstanding job by Head Coach Larry Karas and Assistant Coach Joe Friedel, Friedel handles the line and defense and has the Indians keyed up for this one. Wayne Fredericks and John Langling have done a tremendous job at the defensive halfback position and Mike Gross rates as one of the top defensive linemen in the league.

Perry Monroe, Doug Geer, Bob Mattice, Dennis Bragg and Company seem to get better and better with every game, however, and it will take a superb performance by the Indians to stop them.

WHAT'S HAPPENING HERE?
DEPT. The offensive line of Saugerties High School recaptured some of the lustre it showed against Arlington High and gave Rich Koegel the protection he needed to riddle the John Jay pass defense for a Sawyer win. It also opened the hole twice for fleet-footed Ray Bean's TD scampers. Look for more of the same this Saturday when Coach Fred Seither's boys travel to Roosevelt for a game with the Redskins.

'Bewitched' Still a Stalwart

NEW YORK (AP) — Only a short time back networks' prime time was awash with comedy-whimsy and comedy-fantasy. In recent years some have been big hits before they passed on—"Batman" was one—and some were dogs that scurried away fast, including "Captain Nice."

"Bewitched" on ABC, probably the first of the fantasy situation comedies, still is a stalwart of the ABC lineup. It seemed to have inspired others. "I Dream of Jeannie" came along and while never really a hit, stayed on for several seasons. "The Flying Nun" soared, but never too high, until she was grounded permanently after three seasons.

Currently on the TV scene there is but one other situation comedy in the "Bewitched" category, "Nanny and the Professor," Nanny's magic, however, is attributed to her psychic powers.

Thursday night's program was typical of the series' approach. Samantha, the pretty young witch married to the husband man advertising man, is handed a reproduction of a Revere teapot which is to be presented to a prospective client of her husband. The silver piece gets mixed up in a magic switch. When a nervous, maladroit witch attempts to replace the teapot, she accidentally evokes Paul Revere himself and his horse.

One of the most interesting things about Bewitched is that it attracts an audience that cuts across the age spectrum. That adults can absorb this sort of imaginative nonsense and all the camera tricks is due largely to the beguiling acting of the cast, headed by Elizabeth Montgomery. Dick Sargent plays her constantly exasperated husband, while Agnes Moorehead, Maurice Evans and Paul Lynde pop in and out as the heroine's amusing witch and warlock relatives.

CBS' announcement on the season's programming said that "Ted Mack and the Original Amateur Hour" would start its 13th season on the network in October.

But the month is nearly over and the program's producer has yet to learn when, if at all, the program will be resumed. The half hour has a sponsor and Mack and staff have plans ready to begin production on signal. Last season, what with a cableheader football, the Sunday afternoon program was preempted 22 times.

If the program disappears, it still will have a place in history. It started, under Major Edward Bowes, on radio in the 1930s. It moved into television in 1948, with Mack, who was on Bowes' staff, as host.

Lee Hazen's Play Deceives Expert

By Oswald & James Jacoby

North America will have two teams playing in 1971 World's championship. The defending champion Dallas Aces with Oswald Jacoby as nonplaying captain, will be one. The other has yet to be determined, but the captain will be Lee Hazen of New York.

Lee is a practicing lawyer who has found time to win four Vanderbilt and three Spingolds among other tournament successes. He has not been active in tournament play lately but still plays very good rubber bridge.

In today's hand, we find Lee at three no-trump. West, a well-known expert, opened the clock of hearts. East played the deuce and it was up to Lee to proceed.

As you can see, if Lee takes his ace, he will lose the diamond finesse and four heart tricks will cook his goose. If he ducks, it is a cinch for expert West to find the deadly shift to the club suit. One heart, one diamond and three clubs will leave him one trick short.

Now, see if you can figure how Lee made the hand. It wasn't done with mirrors. Lee nonchalantly played his jack of hearts under West's king.

West knew that Lee was perfectly capable of dropping the jack from ace-jack-small. If East had also been an expert, or had been one of those players who automatically plays next to top when partner leads a king against no-trump, West would have shifted to a club anyway.

Soviet Plays Down Extension

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—The United States has proposed the Middle East cease-fire which expires a week from today. The Soviet Union claimed the proposal had "no significance."

U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations Charles W. Yost made the request for a cease-fire extension in the U.N. General Assembly's Middle East debate Thursday. The discussions continue for the fifth day today, with Egypt, speaking for the second time, Jordan and the Soviet Union among the nations scheduled to take the rostrum.

In his resolution, Yost also proposed the General Assembly help restore the confidence between Israel and Egypt necessary for resumption of the Middle East peace talks. "We want serious discussions which will permit rapid progress toward a settlement," Yost said. "We pledge ourselves to do everything possible to help get such talks started and to promote their successful conclusion."

Soviet Ambassador to the U.N. Jacob A. Malik said that when Yost had brought up the proposal at a meeting of the Big Four ambassadors, "I said that any such unilateral proposal, if not supported by the four participants in the consultations, would have no significance. If there was no support it would just hang in the empty air."

Only hours before Yost introduced the resolution, the Soviet Union and Britain also called for an extension of the cease-fire. They made the request in a joint communiqué issued following a visit of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko to London.

New Shooting in Amman

By United Press International

Arab guerrillas and Jordanian troops fought with heavy machineguns in downtown Amman Thursday, killing two persons. Egypt accused the new Jordanian premier, sworn in less than 24 hours before the fighting, with instigating last month's civil war.

The fighting with 50-caliber machineguns centered around the post office in downtown Amman. It continued for 20 minutes and, according to Palestinian sources, one guerrilla and one Jordanian security man were killed.

The fresh fighting came after King Hussein named a new 17-man cabinet headed by Wasfi Tel, a veteran politician known for his toughness and rightist views.

In Cairo, the semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram said Tel was the "real power" behind the military cabinet of Brig. Mohamed Daoud, whose appointment touched off the civil war. It said Tel also was the "moving power" behind the cabinet of Ahmed Toukan, which took office after Daoud resigned.

According to the newspaper, the possibility of naming Tel was raised during the war and was rejected by the late Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, who was trying to negotiate peace between the guerrillas and the Jordanian government.

The editor of Al-Ahram, Mohamed Hassanein Heikal, said in an article in the newspaper today that Israel would launch an offensive against Egypt.

"Our troops will face an attempt to sound their very depths which may prove to be the severest experience we have passed through so far," he said. "The test has not started yet but is on the way and its front will be wider and more comprehensive than we think. It will be a test of political, economic, military and psychological confrontation."

In the United Nations, the United States proposed the cease-fire expiring Nov. 5 be extended for another 90 days. In making the proposal to the General Assembly, U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Yost also suggested the United Nations help restore confidence between Israel and Egypt so that "serious discussions which will permit rapid progress toward a settlement" can be resumed.

14 Cambodians Are Killed In Attack on Troop Ship

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Viet Cong artillerymen who lay in wait almost at Phnom Penh's outskirts bombarded a Cambodian troop ship as it approached the capital Thursday night in an attack that killed 14 soldiers and wounded 50 others.

The Cambodian command said the mortar rounds began arching onto the vessels as the convoy reached a point on the Mekong River seven miles from the capital. The ships were bringing 300 Cambodian troops home from training in South Vietnam.

One South Vietnamese soldier was killed along with 13 Cambodian troops.

Cambodian and South Vietnamese helicopter gunships immediately poured machinegun and rocket fire onto the east bank of the river where the mortar barrage originated.

Battle raged for the second consecutive night at Phum Kroch Soeuch, 14 miles east of Phnom Penh. The noise of the fighting could be heard in downtown Phnom Penh early today.

The Cambodian command had earlier reported the two companies of Cambodian troops at Phum Kroch Soeuch were "fighting for their lives" against North Vietnamese forces, but said today the Cambodian units had been reinforced.

Communicates from Saigon said South Vietnamese infantrymen killed 41 Viet Cong in three clashes in South Vietnam's Mekong Delta and Cambodian border areas Thursday.

American spokesmen reported no significant ground actions today but said troops of the 1st Cavalry Division found a 5½-mile ammunition cache at the same site where they found two artillery pieces, mortars and machineguns and other weapons on Wednesday. The area is 53 miles northeast of Saigon.

Envoys Off for SALT

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. envoys set off today for Helsinki and round three of the year-old talks with the Soviet Union on curbing the superpower arms race.

The six-man delegation headed by U.S. disarmament negotiator Gerard Smith is hoping for progress in the talks before the expected Christmas recess—but the delegates are not predicting a U.S.-Soviet arms cut agreement by then.

The big question as the Helsinki round opens Nov. 2 will be how the Soviets respond to the U.S. offer made last July just before the strategic arms limitation talks—SALT—recessed in Vienna.

The American offer proposes: An over-all ceiling on numbers of long-range missiles held by both sides, at approximately their present totals; a specific limit on the number of big nuclear rockets such as the Soviet SS9; and abolishing antiballistic missiles or limiting them to defense of a national command site.

Soviet diplomats have indicated they want SALT negotiations to go forward in a businesslike, no-propaganda fashion—but they have not said yes or no to the U.S. offer nor have they made a counter-proposal.

Washington and Moscow have avoided injecting into SALT their quarrels over other issues ranging from the Mideast to Southeast Asia.

If SALT does produce a treaty it would be the most significant U.S.-Soviet disarmament part of the nuclear age. And because SALT deals with basic security weapons of the Big 2 atomic powers, the negotiating may take years.

One of the major issues still unsettled is whether an agreement would cover not only intercontinental missiles but also the medium-range nuclear rockets which the United States has in West Europe and the Soviets have in East Europe.

Bonuses for Teachers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal aid to education program for the first time has authorized funds for bonus pay for teachers working in low-income neighborhoods.

"The bonus will be paid only to teachers who have been selected to serve at schools with the highest concentrations of children from low-income families in the school district," a memorandum issued Thursday by the U.S. Office of Education said.
